TO THE READER.

THE arrangement of this work is as follows: first will be found, the alphabetical Directory of the business men of the city of Pittsburgh, followed by a list of the names of the individuals in each department of trade, commerce, manufactures, &c. arranged under a separate head,—then follow the civil and business offices of the city and county, with their officers, and the statistical facts relating to them; next will be found the moral, religious, and literary departments of the city and county of Allegheny, with all the desirable information relating to them—the whole closing with the business Cards and Advertisements of our city merchants, manufacturers, and business men generally.

The Directory of the city of Allegheny will succeed that of Pittsburgh, under a similar head and similar arrangement, followed by the various flourishing cities and towns, whose business community liberally patronize the work, each arranged as above, under its own head, and presenting a correct compendium of its business and general interests. The towns of Pennsylvania will be followed by a brief view of the different State Departments and officers of this State, and also those of the United States, procured from the Departments themselves, and therefore to be implicitly relied upon as correct. Those of the other states will be given in like manner, following the towns of each. At the close of the volume, a full and correct index of the whole work will be given, together with a list of omissions.

No exertion on our part has been spared, to make it a most useful auxiliary to all departments of business, and all classes of the community, over the United States.

A BRIEF

HISTORY OF PITTSBURGH.

In writing a history of the prosperous City which now stands at the head of the Ohio, we will be brief and concise.

The Governor of Canada, with that enterprising ambition so characteristic of Frenchmen, had formed a vast scheme for the connection of Canada with Louisiana, by a line of well selected posts, to be extended from the Lakes to the Mississippi. It was hoped that this scheme, if successful, would not only contribute to the mutual advantage of those distant Provinces, but would also circumscribe the bounds of the English Colonies, and effectually destroy their trade and influence with the Indians. A post had already been established at the mouth of French creek, where the village of Franklin now stands, and preparations were making to take possession of "the Forks," at the junction of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers. The Governor of Virginia, becoming alarmed by the intelligence he had received of the progress of the French, despatched GEO. WASHINGTON from that state with instructions to proceed to Fort Venango, (the name of the Fort at French creek) to demand an explanation of their designs from the French commandant. On his way to Fort Venango, on the 23d of November, 1753, he arrived at the spot where Pittsburgh now covers. While here he carefully examined the ground, and thought it a very suitable position for the erection of a military post. From a careful perusal of his journal, it seems manifest, that there was not at that time, a single white resident within the limits of our present City.

In the ensuing spring, the Virginia Ohio Company, made arrangements to take permanent possession of the country near the junction of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers, and had commenced the erection of a redoubt, to secure their possession. On the 17th April, 1754, before this redoubt was completed, Monsieur de Contrecoeur, a French officer, with three hundred canoes, containing one thousand French and Indians, and eighteen pieces of cannon, arrived here from Fort Venango and compelled Ensign Ward, who commanded the party engaged in erecting the redoubt, to surrender. The capture of this small detachment of troops was the first open act of hostility committed by the French, and may be considered as the commencement of a war which continued for nine years, and which agitated the two continents, from the banks of the Ganges to the head of the Ohio. From the 17th April, 1754, to the 24th November, 1758, the French retained possession of this place; and this position gave them an influence over the neighboring tribes of Indians, which was so used as to inflict upon the frontier settlers much distress and bloodshed. The importance of this position in a military point of view, was duly appreciated, and early and energetic measures were adopted to expel the French. The expedition and defeat of General Braddock, on the 9th July, 1755, are notorious events, the account of which is not necessary to repeat in this sketch. In 1758, a formidable army was assembled at Carlisle, under the command of Gen. Forbes. On the 14th September, 1758, Major Grant who had been detached in advance from Loyalhanna, with eight hundred men, was surrounded by the enemy, on the hill which has since borne his name, and lost above three hundred men killed or taken prisoners, and himself shared the latter fate. General Forbes, however, undismayed by this disaster, pressed forward, and having on the 21th November, 1758, arrived within one day's march of Fort du Quesne, the French having set fire to the Fort, abandoned it, and descended by the Ohio to their posts on the Mississippi. On the next day General Forbes took possession of the abandoned post, having hastily repaired the fortifications, and garrisoned them with four hundred and fifty men, principally Provincials, from Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia, under Colonel Mercer—the General marched the rest of the troops to Lancaster, Reading, and Philadelphia.

In 1763 an arrangement was made between the Shawanese, and other tribes of Indians, along the Lakes, and on the Ohio, and its tributary streams, to attack, simultaneously, all the English posts and frontier settlements. In the execution of this plan, they captured Le Bœuf, Venango, Presquile, Michilimackinac, and various other posts, which were feebly garrisoned, and murdered all the prisoners. As a part of this great scheme of operations, Fort Pitt was completely surrounded by the Indians, who cut off all communication with the interior of the country, and greatly annoyed the garrison by an incessant discharge of musketry and arrows. The commanding officer, Captain Ewyer, and the garrison, (which was increased by the Indian traders, who had escaped massacre and taken refuge in the fort) made a gallant defence.

Colonel Bouquet was detached from Carlisle, to relieve the beleaguered posts, and after a severe conflict with the Indians, at Bushy Run, he arrived at Fort Pitt on the 9th of August, 1763. In the action of the 5th August, 1763, the Indians were severely handled, several of their principal Chiefs were killed, and they were so much dispirited that they immediately abandoned their operations against Fort Pitt, and retired to their towns on the Muskingum and farther west. In October, 1764, Colonel Bouquet marched on an expedition against the Indian towns on the Muskingum. He reached the Indian towns near the forks of that river, without opposition, and there dictated terms of peace to them.

It was during this year, 1764, probably after the treaty had removed all fear of the Indians, that the old military plan, being that portion of the city lying between Water street and Second street, and between Market and Ferry streets, was laid out. During this year also, was erected the brick redoubt still standing, a little west of Stanwix street, and north of Penn street, being the only remaining monument of British industry within our city limits. In a stone block, in the south face of this redoubt, is still to be seen this inscription, "Col. Bouquet, A. D., 1764.*"

* In our early day, the ditch that ran from the Allegheny river through Marbury, down Liberty and Short street to the Monongahela, and the Mound, and several old brick and log houses, that composed a part of old "Fort Pitt," were standing conspic-

From this time until the close of the Revolutionary war, but little improvement was made at Pittsburgh. The fear of Indian hostilities, or the actual existence of Indian warfare prevented emigration. In 1775, the number of dwelling houses within the limits of our present City, did not, according to the most authentic accounts, exceed twenty-five or thirty.

During the Revolution, the Penn family were adherents of the British Government, and in 1779, the Legislature of this State confiscated all their property, except certain manors, &c. of which surveys had been actually made and returned into the land office, prior to the 4th of July, 1776, and also, except any estates which the said Penns held in their private capacities, by devise, purchase or descent. Pittsburgh and the country eastward of it and south of the Monongahela, containing about 5800 acres, composed one of these manors, and of course remained as the property of the Penns.

In the spring of 1784, arrangements were made by Mr. Tench Francis, the agent of the Penns, to lay out the manor of Pittsburgh, in town lots and out lots, and to sell them without delay. For this purpose he engaged Mr. Geo. Woods, of Bedford, an experienced surveyor, to execute this work. In May, 1784, Mr. Woods arrived here, bringing with him as an operative surveyor, Mr. Thomas Vickroy, of Bedford county, who was then a very young man, and who still survives and enjoys vigorous health, at a good old age. Thro' their activity and industry, the work was soon completed, and the lots and out lots being placed in market, seem to have been very rapidly purchased. From this time improvement seems to have commenced here—Mechanics and traders composed a greater proportion of the population. In 1784, Arthur Lee, a conspicuous diplomatist during our Revolution, was appointed a commissioner to treat with the Indians, and on his way passed through Pittsburgh. In his journal we find the following notice of this place: "Pittsburgh is inhabited almost entirely by Scots and Irish, who live in paltry log houses, and are as dirty as in the north of Ireland, or even Scotland. There is a great deal of small trade carried on; the goods being brought at the vast expense of forty-five shillings per cwt., from Philadelphia and Baltimore. They take in the shops, money, wheat, flour, and skins. There are in the town four attorneys, two doctors, and not a priest of any persuasion, nor church, nor chapel. The rivers encroach fast on the town; and to such a degree, that, as a gentleman told me, the Allegheny had within thirty years of his memory, carried away one hundred yards. The place, I believe, will never be very considerable." If Mr. Lee could now visit the valley of the head of the Ohio, he would find here, a free white population exceeding that of the six largest cities and towns in the Old Dominion. The appearance of Pittsburgh at that time, was not such as would excite extravagant expectations. A small town, composed of two or three brick redoubts, converted into dwelling houses, and some forty or fifty round or hewn log buildings, inhabited principally by poor mechanics and laborers, would have a very discouraging aspect to the eye of a Virginia gentleman, who had visited London, Paris, and Madrid. But these mechanics and laborers were free, had the directions of their own exertions, were industrious, were striving for the advantages of themselves and their offspring, and the possession and enjoyment of the produce of their own labor were secured to them by equal laws. These circumstances, aided by the natural advantages of this situation, in less than fifty years, converted a village of a few petty log houses, into a large, wealthy, and rapidly increasing city.

ues. Several^s of our first houses were built of old brick, especially, the large three story brick house at the corner of the Diamond and the Market house, where the late Mr. Swain kept Swain's Hotel in Allegheny county, &c.

Discouraging as were the appearances of things in 1784, yet in 1786, John Scull and Joseph Hall two poor but enterprising young men, boldly determined to risk their little all in a printing establishment here, and on the 29th of July, of that year, issued the first number of the Pittsburgh Gazette. The publication of a paper, by disseminating information, and attracting attention to the place, no doubt contributed to the growth of the town; it therefore deserves to be mentioned as one of the causes of the rise of a frontier village to a great city.

About this time the tide of emigration from Pennsylvania and Virginia to Kentucky commenced, and in its progress it contributed to the advancement of the place, not only by leaving portions of the funds of the emigrants, in exchange for the means of transportation and supplies, but occasionally leaving here some of the emigrants themselves.

The Indian wars, too, which raged on our Northern and Western frontier, until Wayne's treaty, in 1795, by collecting here large bodies of troops, thus creating a demand for the produce of farms and shops, contributed greatly to the prosperity and growth of our town. On the 24th September, 1788, an act passed creating the county of Allegheny, out of parts of Washington and Westmoreland counties. By this act the Courts were appointed to be held at Pittsburgh, until certain trustees named in the act, should erect suitable buildings on the reserved tract opposite Pittsburgh. By the act of the 13th April, 1891, this provision of the act of 1788 was repealed, and the trustees were authorized and required to purchase lost in Pittsburgh for a Court House and Jail.

The creation of a separate county, and the consequent establishment of county offices, and the frequent assemblage here of judges, sheriffs, and witnesses, operated to the advantage and improvement of the place. The most important event, however, in the early history of our town, was the Western insurrection, in 1794. This disturbance compelled the Government to send a large number of troops to this neighborhood. These troops were principally volunteers; active enterprising young men, many of whom were so pleased with Pittsburgh and the surrounding country, that after performing their tour of duty, they returned home merely to make the necessary arrangements for a permanent settlement here. From that time the progress of this city has been regular, and scarcely interrupted, except by the reaction which took place after the late war.

In addition to the foregoing "Brief Sketch," a few statistical and appropriate facts relative to the progress of our town, at an early period, will here be added.

In an article written by the late Judge Brackenridge, then a young attorney, and published in the first number of the Pittsburgh Gazette, the number of houses in the town of Pittsburgh, was stated to be about one hundred. Allowing to each house five inhabitants, which is probably quite enough, the population would be about five hundred.

In the Pittsburgh Gazette of the 9th of January, 1796, we find the following paragraph:

"The number of inhabitants in the borough of Pittsburgh, as taken by the assessors, during the last week, amounts to one thousand three hundred and ninety-five." This is the earliest authentic account of the population of this place.

In a description of the country at the head of the Ohio, published in the 4th and 5th numbers of the Pittsburgh Gazette, on the 19th and 26th of August, 1789, we find some statements which may be interesting.

1. It appears that there was then settled in the town, one clergyman of the Calvinistic church, Samuel Barr, and one of the German Calvinistic church, occasionally preached here.

2. It is stated also, that "a church of squared timber and moderate dimensions is on the way to be built." This church stood within the ground now covered by the First Presbyterian church.

3. There were two gentlemen of the medical family then here. One we know, was Dr. Bedford.

4. There were also two lawyers here. These, we presume, were the late Judge Brackenridge and John Woods.

5. Carriages from Philadelphia were then six pence for each pound weight. The writer makes the following prediction. "However improved the conveyance may be, and by whatever channel, the importation of heavy articles will still be expensive. The manufacturing them, therefore, will become more an object here than elsewhere."

Pittsburgh was then (1786) in Westmoreland county, and the inhabitants had to travel to Hannah's town, about thirty miles to attend court.

In the Pittsburgh Gazette of September 30, 1786, there is the following extract of a letter, dated Philadelphia, Sept. 14, 1786.

“Mr. Brison has just returned from New York, with orders to establish a post from this place to Pittsburgh, and one from Virginia to Bedford. The two to meet at Bedford.”

Prior to that time there was no regular mail to this place, and the then printers of the Gazette and other inhabitants had to depend upon casual travellers.

In the Gazette of March 10, 1787, it is mentioned that “a meeting of the inhabitants of Pittsburgh, had been held on the 1st inst. and that Messrs. Hugh Ross, Stephen Bayard, and the Rev. Samuel Barr, had been appointed a committee to report a plan for building a Market House and establishing market days.” The citizens were also invited to meet the committee in the public square on Monday the 12th inst., to hear their report. Soon afterward the first Market House was erected near the corner of Second and Market streets, where Beale’s tavern now stands.

During the session of the Legislature of 1786–7 an act was passed “for the establishment of an Academy or Public School at Pittsburgh, and another for the incorporation of the Church of Pittsburgh,” being in fact the first Presbyterian Church.

The first act for the incorporation of the Borough of Pittsburgh, was passed on the 22d of April, 1794. The act to incorporate the City of Pittsburgh, was passed on the 18th of March, 1816.

PREFACE TO THE WORK.

HISTORICAL CONTRAST.

We have again, for a third time, responded to the calls and wants of our business community, by preparing a brief view of the trade, commerce, manufactures, and business, of Pittsburgh and many flourishing cities and towns in the West, and interior of our country. In 1837, we performed a similar service, and presented a very general detail of the business of Pittsburgh, in all its various departments, and of about 100 towns and cities, also. In 1839, we furnished a Directory of Pittsburgh, Allegheny, and the immediate environs. We have been encouraged to extend our views, and enlarge our work, to meet the wide spread progress of our rapidly growing trade, commerce, manufactures, agricultural interests, and mechanical arts,—and a brief history of our business, rivers, lakes, canals, rail roads, and turnpikes, besides a considerable amount of very valuable statistical information, with a notice of each town and city under its proper head,—all which we have collected with care; and we strove to present, not a Pittsburgh, but an impartial General Business Directory.

From 1790 to 1800, the business of Pittsburgh and the West was small, but gradually improving, the fur trade of the West was very important, and Messrs. Peter Maynard and William Morrison were engaged largely in it, and from 1790 to 1796 received considerable supplies of goods, through Mr. Guy Bryan, a wealthy merchant in Philadelphia, and the goods were taken to Kaskaskia in a barge, which annually returned to Pittsburgh, laden with bear, buffalo, and deer skins, and furs and peltries of all kinds, which were sent to Mr. Bryan, and the barge returned, laden with goods; at that period there was no regular drayman in Pittsburgh, and the goods were generally hauled from the boats with a three horse wagon, until (in 1797) a Mr. James Rattle, an Englishman, settled in this city, and was encouraged to take up the business, and drayed and stored goods, until a box of dry goods was stolen from his yard, and shed, (for then we had no warehouse, nor regular commission merchant, in Pittsburgh,) and this broke the poor man up, and he died broken-hearted and unhappy.

A French gentleman, Louis Anastasius Tarasçon,* emigrated in 1794, from France, and established himself in Philadelphia, as a merchant; he was a large importer of silks, and all kinds of French and German goods; being very wealthy and enterprising, in 1799 he sent two of his clerks, Charles Brugiere and James Berthoud, to examine the course of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, from Pittsburgh to New Orleans, and ascertain the practicability of sending ships and clearing them from this port, ready rigged, to the West Indies and Europe. Those two gentlemen returned to Philadelphia, reported favorably, and Mr. Tarasçon associated them and his brother, John Anthony, with himself, under the firm of "John A. Tarasçon, brothers, James Berthoud, & Co.," and immediately established, in Pittsburgh, a large wholesale and retail store and warehouse, a ship yard, a rigging and sail loft, an anchor smith shop, a block manufactory, and in short every thing necessary to complete vessels for sea. The first year, 1801, they built the Schooner Amity, of 120 tons, and the Ship Pittsburgh, of 250 tons; and sent the former, loaded with flour, to St. Thomas, and the other, also with flour, to Philadelphia, from whence they sent them to Bordeaux, and brought back a cargo of wine, brandy, and other French goods, part of which they sent here in wagons at a carriage of from six to eight cents per pound. In 1802, they built the brig Nanino, of 250 tons,—in 1803, the ship Louisiana, of 300 tons,—and in 1804, the Ship Western Trader, of 400 tons.

* These facts have been furnished by Anthony Beelen, Esq., an early merchant.

In or about the year 1796, three of the Royal Princes of Orleans came to Pittsburgh, and stopped at a hotel, situated on the bank of the Monongahela, where Jno. D. Davis' warehouse now stands; they were very affable and conversant, and remained for some time in the city; at length they procured a large skiff, part of which was covered with tow linen, laid in a supply of provisions, and (having procured two men to row the skiff,) proceeded on to New Orleans. One of these Princes was Louis Philippe, the present King of France; who, in his exile, visited our city, and spent his time very agreeably with General Neville, General James O'Hara, and several other respectable families, who then lived on the bank of the Monongahela River.

Having lived in Pittsburgh forty years, the most of which time we have been actively engaged in business, in the busy throng of trade, and having in early times travelled a good deal, we present a variety of facts and statistics, in the course of our work, to shew by way of contrast, not only what Pittsburgh—but Wheeling, Erie, Cleveland, Chambersburgh, and a number of flourishing towns and cities, were in our early days, and what, by their real business, they are now. Facts that will shew, that in about forty years, our own time, these United States, and especially our range and portion of it, have exceeded in growth, population, improvement, and wealth, any nation on the face of the earth; for we remember well during the Embargo times and last war, when the internal trade and commerce of Pittsburgh, by the Ohio, Western, and Southern Rivers, brought us comparatively nigh to Wheeling, Cincinnati, Louisville, Nashville, St. Louis, Natchez, and New Orleans—but the slow process of keel boats and barges was such, that it consumed almost a whole summer for a trip down and up,—when all was done by the hardy boatman, with the pole or by warping,—and when a barge arrived, with furs from St. Louis, cotton from Natchez, hemp, tobacco, and saltpetre from Maysville, or sugar and cotton from New Orleans and Natchez, it was a wonder to the many, and drew vast crowds to see and rejoice over it; and the internal commerce during the war, allied us closely with Richmond, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, these cities getting much of their sugar, saltpetre, &c., by boats and wagons, through Pittsburgh, which then did an immense carrying trade for the United States.

Since the Steam Boats, Canals, Turnpikes, Rail Roads, and other public improvements have afforded vast additional facilities for supplying the great, wide-spread, and wonderful West with goods and manufactures of all kinds, and transporting her rich and inexhaustless supplies of tobacco, lead, iron, cotton, sugar, molasses, flour, furs, peltries, &c. &c. to the eastern cities, who, we ask, can measure, count, or estimate the immense magnitude of this trade in future years and ages, as the country teems with her millions upon millions of sober, intelligent, industrious, productive citizens, and her rich prolific soil; and especially, in times such as we have seen and passed through; wars in Europe, and wars in our own country, and our foreign trade and commerce, embargoed and cut up?

We refer to the body of our work, and leave the thoughtful, calculating, sober citizen, that loves his country's prosperity and glory, to pore over her future greatness, if she adheres to her flag and motto, "Virtue, Liberty, and Independence." Let our young men—the young men, that every patriot and lover of his country delights to see rising in the path of honor and true glory, and a virtuous lover of his country's honor and true greatness, study well the history of their country and of its trade and commerce, and the ramifications of its rich agricultural, mineral, manufacturing, mechanical, and its literary pursuits, and learn to contribute their mite to its grandeur and greatness—remembering, that

"Honor and shame from no condition rise,
Act well your part—there all the honor lies."

Board of Trade.

This Association, organized in 1836, under the control of a President, two Vice Presidents, Treasurer, Secretary and twenty-one Directors, has for its object the amicable adjustment of all difficulties of a business character among merchants, shippers and others.

Reference may be made to a committee of three, appointed monthly, who are made known through the public prints, and who being selected for their general commercial knowledge, have as yet had no appeals made from their decision.

Although established for so short a time, many useful suggestions relative to the prosperity of the city, and calculated to extend its trade and commerce, have already originated in it, and we have more to hope for from this unity of action and combined intelligence of our mercantile community.

A Reading Room, containing the most valuable commercial papers of the country, shipping lists, prices current, public documents, &c., is connected with the Institution, and its rooms are used as a Merchant's Exchange for our city. Strangers can be introduced by application to any of the members and have their names enrolled for one month without charge.

The Association holds its meeting on the first Thursday of January, April, July and October. The board of managers meets every month. The following is a list of the officers.

President—Thomas Bakewell.

Vice Presidents—L. Peterson, John D. Davis.

Secretary—Josiah King.

Treasurer—James Marshall.

Directors—Wm. Eichbaum, John Freeman, George Ogden, J. W. Burbridge, A. M. Anderson, C. F. Spang, R. W. Poindexter, J. P. Bakewell, John Shipton, Alex. Gordon, John Sheriff, Wm. Morrison, William Robertson, A. W. Marks, Luke Taaffe, James Dalzell, J. C. Cooper, Jas. May, W. J. Howard, John Shea, W. McCandless.

J. HARPER,
Clerk of the Directors.

The Pittsburgh Water Works.

This invaluable public improvement, first put in operation in 1827, already supplies a very large part of our city with the pure and wholesome water of the Allegheny, and works are in progress by which its utility will be very much extended. The total cost of the works, up to 1841, has been $188,056.

The number of feet of pipe, with the size, is as follows:

DIAMETER,	No. OF FEET.
Seventeen inches,	391
Fifteen inches,	3563
Twelve inches,	2846
Ten inches,	360
Eight inches,	6628
Six inches,	9508
Four inches,	26464
Two inches,	1546

Total No. of feet laid, 51,306 or rather more than nine miles and a quarter.

No. of branches,	504
Total No. of stop cocks,	89
Total No. of fire plugs,	55

The water committee for the present year are: John P. Bakewell, President; John Sheriff, W. J. Howard, C. Anshutz, and Thomas Mitchell.

Saml. W. Carr, Clerk and Assessor.

Robert Moore, Engineer and Superintendent.

Office at the Works, on Cecil's Ay., Bank of the Allegheny River.

Monongahela Navigation Company.

This Company, holding a charter from the State, for the improvement of the navigation of the Monongahela River, have already expended large sums of money and much labor upon this enterprising and useful work.

The difficulty of procuring funds for the past two years, has prevented the advancement of the work as rapidly as could have been wished; but since the State has authorised an additional subscription of two thousand shares of stock, and other advantageous arrangements have been made, it is tho't that the first and second locks will be completed during the present summer.

The advantages to the country bordering upon the Monongahela will be immense, and particularly so to Brownsville, Monongahela and Elizabeth cities.

The present officers are—T. BAKEWELL, President—JOHN D. DAVIS, Treasurer.

MANAGERS.—W. Eichbaum, John Freeman, L. Peterson. James May, J. W. Burbridge, John Shipton, John Anderson, J. L. Bowman, John Snowden, jr., John F. Kelly.

THOMAS LIGGETT, jr., Secretary.

The Western Penitentiary.

This establishment built on the Gothic plan, is situated on Beaver street, in Allegheny city. For utility in perfecting all the ends of punishment as well as for economy and profitable results, it is, perhaps, not surpassed by any establishment of a similar nature in the country. The aggregate profit from the labor of convicts for the last year, exceeded by several thousand dollars, the charges necessary for their maintenance. The report of the attending physician, presents the singular fact, "that our Pennsylvania system of solitary confinement, with labor, is rather conducive than injurious to the health of the persons confined." The following are the officers at the present time: A. BECKHAM, Warden,

W. F. IRWIN, Physician,

REV. JOSEPH BANKS, Moral Instructor.

INSPECTORS.—James Anderson, President—Benjamin Darlington, William Lecky,—John Irwin, Treasurer—William Robinson, jr., Secretary.

The following table shows that the whole number of Prisoners received since the commencement of the Institution in 1826, has been 756

Of these were discharged by expiration of sentence	469
do do do Death	26
do do do Pardons	111
do do do Suicides	1
do do do Escapes	16
do Escaped and recommitted	6

Weaving, shoe making and oakum picking, are the employments of the prisoners. The use of intoxicating drinks appears to have been the cause of a large proportion of the crimes for which commitments have been made.

Literary Institutes.

The Philological Institute.

This Institute was organized on the 7th December, 1827. The whole number of members since its formation has been 94. Of these, thirty were merchants, twenty-five lawyers, fourteen editors, twelve manufacturers and six doctors of medicine. Ten of whom have died and twenty-nine removed. A large and well selected library is being procured. The place of meeting is in the Philo Hall, in Fourth street, between Wood and Market.

President—William M. Shinn.

Vice President—Robert Robb.

Secretary—Joseph A. Wills.

Censor—Thos. M. Howe.

The Wirt Institute.

This Institute was formed in August, 1837. The number of members at the present time, is about forty. Any young man of correct moral deportment, can be admitted by paying twenty dollars. This society has established a course of literary and scientific lectures during the winter months, which have been well patronised. The proceeds of these lectures are devoted to the increase of the library, which, at present, contains 314 volumes, and is shortly to be much increased. The society meets in the Philo Hall, in Fourth street, between Wood and Market streets. The officers are elected semi-annually, and are at present as follows:

President—R. E. Sellers.

Vice President—Wm. Collingwood.

Secretary—Thompson Bell.

Librarian—Wm. B. Scaife.

Censor—E. G. Nicholson.

Tilghman Society, (West. University.)

“Omnia explorete, optima tenete.”

This society was founded in 1822, and takes its name from the late chief justice of Pennsylvania. The officers of the Institution, are a President, Vice President, (who is also treasurer), a Secretary, Librarian and Censor, who are chosen monthly. The Library is not large, but the members have followed the spirit of their very apposite motto, by securing the best and most authoritative works on history, which, with copies of the English classics, constitute their collection, in all about 500 volumes.

The Hall of the society is in the S. E. corner of the University Building, in the third story, and is very neatly furnished.

A very faithful portrait of the learned and venerable Provost, Dr. Bruce, painted by J. Clarendon Daily, Esq, of Philadelphia hangs in the Hall. It is the property of the “Alumni Association” who are all members of the Society: By an article of the constitution none others but those who have been at some period students of the University, can become members of the society. The fate of the rival Society suggested this conservative provision, for when the interests of the different members of the societies and the Institution to which they belong are not identical, sooner or later dissension will arise among them. The number of regular members at the present time is 25. The list of Honorary Members consists chiefly of those who have been ordinary members, yet they have given many who are now in the front rank of their profession in the pulpit and the bar, and some who are in the Halls of Congress. The Society meets every Friday evening.

Benevolent Societies of Pittsburgh and vicinity.

In the great benevolent operations of the age, the citizens of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, and the county generally, have always manifested a most commendable and zealous interest. As early as the year 1802, the Presbyterian Synod at its first meeting, formed itself into a society, whose object was the dissemination of Christian Education and intelligence among the Western Indians, and through its exertions schools were established among the Wyandots, the Alleghenies, the Ottowas and other tribes in their neighborhood. This society was called "The Western Missionary Society," and continued its operations for some years: The same Synod, in 1831 organized "the Western Foreign Missionary Society," which has done much to extend the light of life to the heathen. The Bible cause, also is one in which great exertions have been made and great good accomplished amongst us. The Pittsburgh Bible Society was organized in 1814, and became an auxiliary of the American Bible Society in 1817. In this institution men of all denominations have united to pursue and carry out the grand object of spreading the Holy Scriptures throughout the nations of the earth. The Young Men's Bible Society, organized in 1817, likewise lent its aid to the same noble cause, and although the original plan of its constitution is somewhat changed, still pursues the accomplishment of the great ends of Christian benevolence. The Pittsburgh Female Bible Society, organized in 1822, and the Young Ladies' Bible Society, organized in 1830, together have contributed nearly five thousand dollars to the parent institution since their formation. In Allegheny city a female Bible Society has for a long time existed, and this, together with the Allegheny Bible Society, an auxiliary of the Pennsylvania Bible Society, have also contributed largely to circulate the Scriptures.

The Female Benevolent Associations and Dorcas Societies of our cities, many of which have existed for a long time, have done immense good in relieving the distresses of the suffering poor. Their kindness will long be remembered by the widows and the fatherless.

The effects of the "Association for promoting the observation of the Christian Sabbath," are visible in the quiet solemnity of the Sabbath, and the great respect paid to all the ordinances of religion. Indeed, we think we are safe in asserting, that there is not a city in the Union, of the same population, in which as great respect is paid to the observation of the one day in seven, as in our own.

Besides those societies in which all without regard to religious denomination, blend their united efforts, there are associations in almost every church devoted to objects of benevolence. The Bible, the Tract, the Missionary, the Temperance causes, and all charitable objects are promoted with a zealous good will in all our churches and congregations. It would exceed our limits, were we to give individual notices of them all, for we believe that there is no one of our religious bodies, that has not several connected with it.

The Sabbath Schools we have noticed as far as lay in our power, under the head of Churches, &c. to which we refer.

The glorious cause of Temperance has progressed among us nobly, wonderfully. A branch of the American Temperance Society has existed here since 1827, but it has not been until within the last year, that the reformation has proceeded with such giant strides, as to overcome all opposition. We are unable to procure the exact number that are members of the different Temperance Societies in this and Allegheny city, but from all the information we can procure, we believe the number to exceed ten thousand. This great and happy change in the habits of our community, may be attributed to the exertions of many of our citizens, assisted more recently by the labors of delegates from the Washington Society of Baltimore. The spirit of Father Mathew, the Irish apostle of Temperance, seems to have sped over the waters to our land, and to have alighted not only upon the clergy of his own denomination but upon those of all denominations, and the good work has gone on triumphantly.

In conclusion, it appears evident that the march of intellectual and moral improvement is onward in our midst, and that a universal desire to speed its progress fills the minds and hearts of our citizens. Let these good works advance and prosper until the wine cup shall be labelled "poison," until the Bible shall be in the hands of all, until the "sun of righteousness" shall shed his rays on every darkened mind,

Public Schools, their directors and teachers.

There is a school in each of the five wards of the city of Pittsburgh, under the direction of a Board to whom the teachers report, and these again report to the Secretary of State at Harrisburgh.

FIRST WARD

School house is situated in Ferry street, between Liberty and Fourth. The male department is under the charge of Mr. Stearns and his brother—has about 127 scholars with an average attendance of one hundred.

The female department is under the charge of Miss Evans and Miss Blasdell, and has about 135 scholars, with an average attendance of one hundred.

The directors are Wm. Eichbaum, President; Thomas Liggett, Jr., Secretary; John Caldwell, Treasurer; George Albee, Samuel R. Johnston, Richard Edwards.

SECOND WARD

School house is situated on Ross street; it is a new and excellent building.

The male department is under the charge of Mr. Meeds; numbers about one hundred and sixty scholars, with an average attendance of one hundred and twenty.

The female department is under the charge of Mrs. Meeds and Miss Coale. There are two hundred and sixteen scholars, with an average attendance of one hundred and forty.

The directors are Benjamin Bakewell, President; Jonathan Kidd, Secretary; Alexander Jaynes, George Ogden, James A. Bartram, Alexander Miller, Esqr.

THIRD WARD

School house is situated on Grant's Hill, between Third and Fourth streets, on Cherry alley. It has a good steeple and ball. There are three departments in this school. The male department is under the instruction of Mr. Hunter and Mrs. Hunter. The female department is conducted by Miss Dickey, and Miss Jones.

The primary department is under the charge of Miss Brisbane and Miss McCoy.

The number of scholars on the list is three hundred, but the average attendance is about eighty five.

There is also an African public school in this ward which numbers ninety scholars with an average attendance of about seventy, it is under the charge of Mr. Templeton, a reputable man of color.

The directors are Andrew Beggs, President; Peter Graff,

Secretary and Treasurer; Martin Lytle, Wm. Pentland, Gabriel Adams, and Hugh McMasters.

FOURTH WARD

School house is a large building with a steeple, upon Irwin st., near the Allegheny river.

In the male department Mr. Isaac B. Livingston and Milton McLelland are the teachers. The number of scholars enrolled is one hundred and forty, but the average attendance does not exceed one hundred and ten.

The female department is under the charge of Miss Dickey and Miss McGowan, and has one hundred and fourteen scholars on the list, with an average attendance of seventy five.

The directors are R. W. Poindexter, President; R. L. Cassett, Secretary; Henry Higby, John B. McFadden, F. G. Bailey and James Dalzell.

FIFTH WARD

School house is located on Pike street. It is under the charge of Mr. J. B. Lefevre, and consists exclusively of boys, of whom there are about one hundred enrolled. The average number of attendance is about eighty.

The female school of this ward is located on Liberty street, and is conducted by Mr. J. R. Wilson; has about one hundred and thirty scholars enrolled, and the average attendance is about one hundred and ten.

The directors are John McCracken, President; Henry Jones, Secretary; William Bayne, Edward Morton, George Hamilton, James Ryan.

The Common English branches of education, as Arithmetic, Grammer and Geography, are taught in all our public schools, and in many of them the higher branches are also taught. The books used are various, according to the different opinions of the directors and teachers.

It would, perhaps, be a better plan if some uniform class of books were adopted, as the difficulties of changing books with every new teacher, are an incalculable drawback to the scholar.

Select Private Schools and Seminaries.

Mr. R. T. Leech and Lady have a Select Seminary for Young Ladies at the two mile run, on the Greensburgh turnpike. The situation is a very airy and beautiful one, and admirably adapted for all the purposes of a school, both as regards health and facilities for study. The Lady and Gentleman are old and experienced teachers, and qualified in every point of view to take charge of the education of Young Ladies. They are assisted by their daughters.

Rev. H. J. Bakewell, with some Female Assistants, teaches a Ladies' Seminary near the corner of Penn street and Irwin's alley. Scholars are instructed in the common English branches together with the French.

Mrs. L. C. Judson and daughter teach a Select School in the basement story of the First Baptist church, corner of Second and Grant. Both the primary and higher branches are taught, together with all kinds of needle work.

Mr. S. Coale teaches a school, corner of Fourth & Cherry alley, in which he gives instruction in the primary and common branches.

Miss Laughlin conducts a school on the corner of Seventh & Washington, where the primary and common branches are taught.

Mr. Jeremiah O'Donovan has a school in the basement of the German church, corner of Sixth & Grant, consisting of males and females. The common English branches are taught.

In the German church, corner of Sixth & Smithfield, there are three schools. Mr. Widney has charge of 30 scholars, who are taught in the common branches. Mr. Sutherland has charge of about 16 scholars, who are similarly instructed. Mr. Diehl teaches a school of 60 German scholars, male and female, who are taught the common branches, together with the German grammar.

Mr. Gass teaches a select school in the hall of the Neptune Engine House. Both the primary and higher branches are taught.

Mrs. Newton teaches a small select school in Seventh nearly opposite the Lutheran church. The pupils are instructed in the common and higher branches, together with drawing, embroidery and needle work.

Mr. Cust teaches a school on Hand, between Liberty & Penn. The common and higher branches are taught.

Miss Ewing teaches a male and female school on Hand, between Penn and the Allegheny river. She teaches the branches usually taught in select schools.

Mr. W. K. Tilcomb teaches a select school in the basement story of the Independent church, in St. Clair, near the Allegheny bridge. With the ordinary branches of education, he gives instruction in the Latin and Greek Classics and several branches of science.

Mr. and Mrs. Dumars, on Third, between Wood & Smithfield, teach select schools, both male and female. The common branches of an English education, together with needle work of every description, are taught.

Mr. Williams conducts a select school in the basement story of the Third Presbyterian church. The primary and some of the higher branches of Literature are taught.

Miss Parsons teaches a school on the East side of St. Clair, a short distance from the Allegheny bridge. The elementary with the higher branches are taught, as also plain, fancy and ornamental needle work.

Miss Finney and Sister have charge of a school on the East side of Marbury, between Penn and the Allegheny river. The scholars are chiefly girls, who are instructed in the primary and higher branches.

Mr J. H. Peacock instructs a school in the basement story of the new Associate Reformed church, on Fourth, between Smithfield & Grant. The common branches are taught.

Mrs. Biddle instructs a female school on Smithfield, between Fifth & Sixth. The primary and some of the higher branches are taught, together with the French language,

The Sisters of Charity, of the Catholic church, teach a school on Chatham street on the north side of Coal Lane.

Mrs. Roberts teaches a select class at her residence, on the South side of Second, opposite the Market house, on Second. She gives instruction in the primary branches of education and some of those more advanced.

Mr. Smith has charge of a school in the upper story of the building next door to the Monongahela House, on Water street. The primary, higher, scientific and classical branches are taught.

Mr D Stone has a select seminary for boys at Killbuck, Allegheny. All the higher, scientific and classical branches are taught, as well as those suited to scholars not so far advanced. The location is a beautiful and healthy one.

Mr. S. Johnson and Daughter teach a select school for ladies at the corner of Federal street and the second bank, Allegheny city. All the useful and ornamental branches taught.

Mr. S. Blood teaches a select school in Allegheny city, on Federal, nearly opposite the Post Office. The common and higher branches of an English education are taught.

Mrs Taplin teaches a select school for young ladies in a building on Third street, adjoining the Pittsburgh Bank. She is assisted by Miss Washburn, who teaches drawing, painting and embroidery. There is also a teacher of music and French. Mrs. T. teaches the common branches with most of the higher ones, as Philosophy, mental and moral, Rhetoric, Logic, History, Elocution, &c. &c.

The Accountant's Institute, corner Fifth and Market, is under the charge of Mr. Duff. Its object is to give a complete Mercantile education in all kinds of book-keeping, penmanship, mercantile correspondence, &c.

The Rev. H. Dyer, of the Episcopal church, conducts a seminary in the building formerly occupied by Dr. Lacy.

Miss Cust has a female school on Coal Lane, in which the primary and common English branches are taught.

Mr Gray has charge of a school in the basement story of the Lecture room of the First Presbyterian church. Both the common and higher branches, together with the classics, are taught.

Mr D C Holmes teaches a select school in the basement story of St. Andrew's church, on hand street. He teaches the languages and sciences, together with the common and primary branches.

Mrs Lawrence, the wife of the Rev. Mr. Lawrence, of the African Methodist Episcopal church, teaches a select school for colored children, both male and female, in which the common branches are taught

Besides the above mentioned schools, there are many private instructors in the city, among them we mention Mr Herbert and Mr Meyer in modern languages; Mr T Howard Tuttle, in writing and book-keeping, and Mr. Gillespie in drawing and painting.

Western University of Pennsylvania.

The University commenced its operations as a college in 1822, and since that time about one hundred have received the Degree of Bachelor of Arts, of whom nearly seventy have devoted themselves to the holy ministry of religion. The building of the University is situated on Third street, between Smithfield and Grant.

The Board of Trustees of whom the Rev. Geo. Upfold is President, is composed of twenty eight members, mostly gentlemen residing in and about Pittsburgh.

The Rev. Robert Bruce, D D, is Principal and Professor of Natural and Moral Philosophy and Mathematics.

PITTSBURGH IN OLDEN TIME—THE CONTRAST.

We have selected from Cramer, Spear & Eichbaum's excellent Magazine Almanac, the first view of the business of Pittsburgh, which, with our early history of it, will furnish a faithful contrast, and show how we commenced, progressed, and our present business.

PITTSBURGH, SEPTEMBER 23, 1803.

Upon a rough calculation, we find that the imports to this place for the last twelve months of merchandize of various kinds amount to two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. And the amount of the exports of flour, whiskey, bar-iron, castings,

&c. from the neighborhood of Pittsburgh, about one hundred and eighty thousand; so that we find ourselves in debt no less than seventy thousand dollars. This year we are flattered with the hope of a better market for our produce; the lightness of the crops however will scarcely make up the deficiency. So that I see but little prospect of getting rid of this already accumulated debt for two years to come. For every corner and hole in this western country, if they be not already filled with foreign extravagances, they cannot long remain so. To see miles together of the mountains lined with waggons, you would be disposed to presume either that their contents were lost to the right owners, or that the bowels of the country must groan with mines of gold equal to those of Peru. It is known to but a few how as many debts are paid off as really are. Where the money comes from God knows. To visit the country—to hear the cries of the widow and fatherless—to see their property torn from them by the rugged hand of the law—exposed to sale—the crier cries—who'll buy!—and perhaps it is the last bed that a delicate female has to sleep on—or a cow, the only support of a numerous and helpless family of children. The picture is too alarming—we will let the curtain fall for a moment, and wait the event of time.

The Manufacturing interest of Pittsburgh—1808.

The following enumeration of the manufactories, artists and mechanics of Pittsburgh, will give a tolerable good idea of the progress of the place.—Perhaps no place of the same size in the U. S. could turn out so many industrious artisans, and it is believed we bid the fairest to become the most considerable manufacturing people, for an interior town, in the Union. The natural situation of the place must push us on to this point—and the local advantages attending us, are uncommonly numerous, and peculiarly adapted for our convenience. In a few years we hope to see all heavy articles in iron, brass, copper, &c., manufactured among ourselves—It wants nothing now to accomplish this, but a few spirited and monied men to set the thing on foot, and give countenance to the enterprise. There are many articles daily floating over the mountains which helps to drain the country of money to pay for them, and which might as easily be made here, as a common horse shoe, were the proper steps taken. There is, at least 20,000 dollars worth of hardware sold out of our stores annually, which ought to be made on the spot. The principal of these articles are, scythes, sickles, spades, shovels, flat irons, drawing knives, carpenter's squares, hand and mill saws, currycombs, coffee mills, chissels, gimlets, hammers, shovels and tongs, handirons fenders, knives and forks, bridle bits, mounting for cabinet work, &c., augurs and many other articles not recollected—And there might be $20,000 saved in the article of delf, and as much more in the article of fine glass, all of which might be manufactured in the town, and wants nothing but a public spirit in the citizens to accomplish it. Let the public spirit exist, and the object is nearly accomplished, nothing but this is wanting—money, materials, and workmen are at hand. We can only hope and pray that the propriety and advantages of these things may be looked into.

The population and buildings, are also increasing very rapidly—In 1806 there were built about 80 dwellings—this season, 1807, about 100 is on the way. It was our intention to have taken an exact enumeration of all the inhabitants. Circumstances, however, prevented us; but we will try this object for our next year's Almanac, and, at present, present our readers with the number of the Master Workmen in each particular branch of business carried on in Pittsburgh: we have tried to get the statement as correct as possible, if any mistakes should have occurred, we hope they will be pointed out to us, with a communication of any other information which may be deemed worthy of notice, and to the advancement of our manufacturing interest.

MANUFACTORIES, ARTISTS AND MECHANICS.

1 Cotton manufactory, which cards, spins and weaves an immense quantity of beautiful cotton yearly, and to the great credit and profit of its industrious proprietor. It has one mule which spins at once 120 threads, with the assistance of one man and a boy; and one spinning jenny of 40 threads; 4 looms, one of which is $3\frac{1}{2}$ yards broad, for ticking, &c. A wool carding machine is carried on under the same roof.

1 Green glass works opposite the town, which makes an immense quantity of window glass, bottles, jars, &c., annually.

2 Breweries.

1 Air furnace, at which are cast pots, kettles, mill-irons, flat-irons, &c.

4 Nail manufactories, cut and wrought.

7 Coppersmiths, and tinplate workers—two of these carry on the japaning largely, and one planishes equal in appearance to silver.

1 Wire manufactory, at which are wove rolling and standing screens for mills, all kinds of riddles, sifters.—The manufacturer assures us that he sells his articles at the lowest Philadelphia and Baltimore prices.

1 Brass foundry. 6 Saddlers. 2 Gunsmiths. 2 Tobacco-nists. 1 Bell maker. 1 Scythe and sickle maker, (5 miles up the Allegheny.) 2 Soap boilers, and tallow chandlers. 1 Brush maker. 1 Trunk maker. 5 Coopers. 13 Weavers. 10 Blue dyers. 1 Comb maker, who wants horns, and gives for good ones, 3 dollars per 100. 7 Cabinet makers. 1 Turner in ivory, wood and metals. 6 Bakers. 8 Butchers. 2 Barbers. 6 Hatters. 4 Physicians. 2 Potteries. 3 Straw bonnet makers. Reed maker, (near town.) 1 Wool and cotton card manufactory, (Monongahela.) 1 Wire drawer, (about establishing himself.) 4 Plane makers. 6 Milliners. 12 Mantua makers. 1 Stocking weaver. 1 Glass cutter. 2 Book binderies. 4 House and sign painters. 2 Limners. 1 Sail maker. 2 Mattress makers. 1 Upholsterer. 3 Waggon makers. 5 Watch and Clock makers and silversmiths. 5 Bricklayers. 4 Plasterers. 3 Stone cutters. 5 Boat builders. 2 Ship builders. 1 Saddletree maker. 1 Flute and Jewsharp-maker. 1 Pump maker. 1 Bell hanger. 1 Looking glass maker. 1 Ladies' lace maker. 1 Lock maker .7 Tanners. 2 Rope walks, (at which hemp is much wanted.) 2 Spinning wheel makers. 17 Blacksmiths, average 2 1-2 fires to each shop. 1 Machinist and whitesmith, equal if not superior to any workman in the United States. 1 Cutler and tool-maker. 32 House carpenters and joiners. 21 Boot and shoemakers, (averaging 20,000 pairs of shoes annually.) 1 Ladies' shoemaker, (shoe store) averaging 2,500 pairs made annually. 5 Windsor chair makers averaging 150 doz. chairs annually. 1 Split bottom chair maker. 13 Taylors. 2 Spinning wheels spindle and crank makers (near town.) 1 Breeches maker. 1 Glove maker. 12 School masters. 2 School mistresses. 33 Tavern keepers. 52 Store keepers, or merchants. 4 Printing officers. 1 Copperplate printer and picture seller. 5 Brickyards. 3 Stone masons. 2 Booksellers. 1 Harness maker. 1 Horse farrier. 1 Starch maker. 1 Gardener and seed man. 3 Board and lumber yards.

PITTSBURGH, (1809) About six years ago contained 2400 inhabitants; it now contains 600 dwelling houses, and averaging 8 to a house, 4800 inhabitants. There are 5 brick buildings for public worship, besides other houses in which divine service is performed. A spacious court house, a market house, jail, &c.

In addition to the manufactories, &c., enumerated last, there is,

1 White glass works, established by Messrs. Robinson and Ensell, in which is manufactured all kinds of glass wares, of a good quality.

1 Bell metal button manufactory, by Thomas Neal; the buttons well made and sell as manufactured—60 cents per gross. He gives the highest price for old pewter, brass and copper.

1 Pipe manufactory, by Mr. Price.

1 Cotton manufactory, by Mr. Scott.

1 Violin maker.

1 Patent boot and shoemaker. The heel and sole is tacked without a stitch—and are strong. Abel Smith is the patentee.

Port of Pittsburgh.

Through the kindness of Thos McFadden, Esq., Wharf Master, we have been permitted to examine his books, and extract the following account of the business on the Monongahela Wharf.

THE ALLEGHENY RIVER TRADE AND COMMERCE.

This beautiful river that comes from the great and populous state of New York, and mingles with the Monongahela at Pittsburgh, forming the Ohio River, is becoming daily more important in its trade, and we find it difficult to give even a faint idea of its growing business, as no collector or register has been appointed to make a record of its commerce. In our early day a few flat and keel boats, and the Indian canoe done all the business on it. We then sent up all the flour, meat, whiskey and many articles of trade, used by the inhabitants, along the river and its numerous tributaries. The state of Michigan and the Army of the U. States at Detroit, Michilimackinack, &c., was supplied with provisions that went from Pittsburgh to Franklin, then by French Creek to Waterford, thence in waggons to Erie, and from the thence in ships on Lake Erie. All the salt used in Pittsburgh and the western country, was brought from the Canandaigua salt works, New York, by way of Erie, French Creek and the Allegheny river, and sold at, from ten to twenty dollars a barrel. Now the scene has changed, and on looking at the business of Jamestown, N. Y., and Warren, Pa., the rich products and business of the French Creek valley, from Meadville down, and the great iron establishments in Venango and Armstrong counties and the immense lumber trade of the Allegheny, it will be seen that they have become heavy exporters, coming to Pittsburgh, and passing down the Ohio to Wheeling, Cincinnati, Louisville and New Orleans, St. Louis and all intermediate ports—with their trade, produce and manufactures; from the Allegheny and tributaries down from Olean, Kiskiminitas, Conewango, French Creek, Clarion river, &c. &c. They take up annually a great many Pittsburgh manufactures, groceries and foreign and domestic goods, and bring down a vast deal of all kinds of lumber, logs and shingles, pot and pearl ashes, whiskey, cheese, cabinet ware, patent tubs and buckets, hay, oats, potatoes, hoop poles, bark, &c. &c., and large quantities of salt from the Kiskiminitas, and a vast quantity of pig metal from Venango and Armstrong counties. From three to six steam boats now ply on the Allegheny to Freeport, Kittanning, Franklin, Warren, and back. In the last two years they have made about 500 trips, up and down. The following steam boats have been engaged in the Allegheny river trade, viz. Elizabeth, Pulaski, Forrest, Beaver, Pauline, (now withdrawn, and the Orphan Boy to replace her) and occasionally the Izaak Walton. In the summer season, when the river is low, several small keel and flat boats are employed to do the carrying trade. About 400 very large arks, or flat boats, from 65 to 120 feet long, come down the Allegheny annually, loaded with lumber and produce. The boats are generally sold at Pittsburgh to the coal merchants, who reload them with coal for Cincinnati, Louisville, Natchez and intermediate ports.

Steam boat trips in two years,	500
Large flat boats, or arks, arriving down, with lumber, produce and manufactures, about	800

Total, 1300

Concluding remarks to the Reader.

In collecting and arranging for publication, the business statistics of a great commercial city like our own, it must necessarily occur that slight errors will arise, both from the difficulty in many cases of procuring accurate information, and also from those mistakes to which the Press is always liable. Our exertions, however, have been unremitting and we confidently believe that the preceding pages present as comprehensive and concise, and at the same time, as fair and impartial a view of the manufactures, trade, commerce and general business interests of our large and rapidly improving city as it is possible to comprehend in a work of the design and extent of the present.

In glancing back through the medium of history as we have done, and comparing Pittsburgh as it at present appears, and as it was forty years ago, the fact forcibly presents itself to the mind, that not only its position at the starting point of the greatest continued extent of inland navigation in the world, have fostered its growth and drawn wealth to the coffers of its inhabitants, but that the character which our citizens have always maintained for industry and economy, has likewise been a philosopher's stone which has turned our coal, and iron, and timber into gold. The faces of many of our citizens who are now worth their tens of thousands, were once blackened by the smoke of the furnaces which they now own, and some who now ride in their carriages, might once have been seen driving drays. The advantages of a man's own individual exertion in raising himself to competence and a respectable station in society, has truly been exemplified in our city.

The scholar, the antiquarian and the poet may also find much to please and interest in our neighborhood, for we are located on classic ground. Here were the sites of old Fort Pitt and Du Quesne, and a few miles distant amid the bold and beautifully varied scenery by which we are surrounded, are Braddock's Field and the site of old Fort McIntosh, all of them localities which are associated with the names of such men as Wayne, Braddock, McIntosh and Washington, who were all here in the infancy of our city, and whose deeds contributed so largely to the early prosperity of this portion of our country.

The literary man, and we have many among us, could scarcely choose a spot in the west more suited to the gratification of his tastes, than the neighborhood of our city.

And with such facilities as we have shown that it has, it is impossible to predict what may be its future greatness. When we walk along our streets and see rows of warehouses and splendid mansions, where within the memory of many now living, the log cabin was the only dwelling, and when along our wharves we see rows of noble steamboats where the arrival of a single keel boat once attracted the attention of half the then population, we are filled with wonder at the improvement which labor and mechanical science have made in the condition and happiness of our population, and we look forward to results still more wonderful. Indeed, we do not think we over estimate the resources of our location and the enterprising business character of our community, when we predict that Pittsburgh will one day be the greatest manufacturing city on the western continent, if not in the world.

Lawrenceville.

The borough of Lawrenceville is beautifully situated on the eastern bank of the Allegheny river, at the distance of two miles and a half from Pittsburgh, and near the Greensburgh turnpike. It is just opposite Wainwright Island, the spot where Gen. Washington was cast away in his first effort to cross the Allegheny, when on his mission to Fort Franklin. As a location for country seats, its vicinity is not surpassed in beauty of scenery or purity of atmosphere, by any of our suburban villages, and many of our wealthy citizens have availed themselves of its facilities, whose elegant villas add much to the appearance of the place, particularly when viewed from the opposite side of the river. Here also is situated the Allegheny

Arsenal, the most important military post, in this section of the country, where are manufactured and stored, ordnance, small arms, and all sorts of military equipments which are shipped from time to time, to the southern and western forts of the U. States, as occasion demands. It is under the command of Maj. H. K. Craig, who, together with the other gentlemen attached to the station are a great addition to the society of the place. There are three churches in the borough: an Episcopal, Presbyterian and Methodist, with Sabbath schools attached a to each.

N. B.—For a statistical account of the arsenal, see article headed Allegheny Arsenal, (page 98.) George Schreiner, who is in that list put down as master coppersmith, is the master armorer; Samuel Garrison, is the coppersmith.

East Liberty.

THIS handsome town is situated five miles east of Pittsburgh, on the Greensburgh and Philadelphia turnpike. It is surrounded by a delightful country, over which, many beautiful country seats belonging to our wealthy citizens are scattered. It is yearly improving, and promises soon to be one of the most delightful country residences in the vicinity of Pittsburgh.

There are three churches and Sabbath Schools, several common schools, a post office, several first rate Hotels and stores, two magistrates, and many sober and industrious mechanics.

Wilkinsburgh.

Wilkinsburgh is pleasantly situated near the Pennsylvania turnpike, leading to Greensburgh, Chambersburgh and Philadelphia; the Northern turnpike leading to Blairsville, Huntington, and Harrisburgh intersects this, near this place.

About two and a half miles south is the celebrated Braddock's Fields on the Monongahela river, a place interesting for its historical reminiscence. For a long time the prosperity of this delightful village was paralyzed and its inhabitants disheartened by litigations attending uncertain titles to the soil, but now, since this serious difficulty has been removed, a new impetus has been given to business, good buildings are being erected, important improvements are making, and Wilkinsburgh is becoming one of the most beautiful and desirable locations for country seats in our neighborhood. There are many flourishing farms and gardens in and around it, and within a mile of the village the Hon. Wm Wilkins, our late ambassador to Russia, has a most charming country seat. Mr. Wm Peebles, Major A Horback, and several others have pleasant country residences in this neighborhood.

There is much travel through this place, especially in winter, when other transportation being closed, the freights between Baltimore, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, are carried by wagons, large numbers of which pass through this place. There are two Hotels, two merchants, a Post Office, a church, a school house, and several industrious mechanics in the place. A large quantity of lime is made in this vicinity, much of which is brought to Pittsburgh.

Minersville.

This village is pleasantly situated about two miles east of Pittsburgh, on a new turnpike road, which passes through it from Pittsburgh to East Liberty. It is the dwelling place of a number of very respectable families, whose neat houses and flourishing farms and gardens, and other choice improvements, surrounded by the naturally picturesque scenery, render it a very desirable residence. There are some of the best coal pits in our vicinity here, and many coal dealers and waggons reside in the neighborhood. There are two churches, (Presbyterian and Welsh) with Sabbath schools attached, in the village, and the population is sober, intelligent and industrious. We have seen, on a Sabbath evening, both these houses of worship, which are within one hundred feet of each other, crowded to overflowing, with their respective congregations. As much mining is done here, a large proportion of the inhabitants are Welsh

Birmingham.

The borough of Birmingham is situated one mile south of Pittsburgh on the opposite side of the Monongahela river, upon the Birmingham and Elizabeth turnpike. Its location is a beautiful one, and in manufacturing interest, it partakes of the character of its English namesake, having within its limits four glass manufacturing establishments, two of all kinds of window and green glass, belonging to Messrs. C Ihmsen, and S M'Kee & Co., and two flint glass works, one of which belongs to Messrs. O'Leary, Mulvany & Co. and the other suspended at the present time. There are also two extensive iron establishments belonging to Messrs. Wood, Edwards & M'Knights; large lock factory belonging to James Patterson, sr.; a white lead factory belonging to Mr. Isaac Gregg; several extensive coal establishments, and Breweries, together with artizans of various kinds, the whole constituting as useful and industrious population as any place of the size in our country can boast of. It has a Market house, two churches, a Presbyterian and Methodist, with Sabbath schools attached, and a flourishing Temperance Society.

Business Directory of Sligo

And the South side of the Monongahela river to Temperance Village and Millersville, inclusive.

Under this head we have given the names of the business men who reside or have their manufactories on the South side of the Monongahela river, from the Bridge to Temperance Village, on Saw Mill Run, and Millersville, on the Washington turnpike. Within this district there are three very extensive iron establishments, the Sligo Iron works, owned by Lyon, Shorb & Co.; the Pittsburgh iron works belonging to Messrs. Lorenz, Sterling & Co., and Robinson & Minis' extensive foundry and boat yard, where the iron steamer Valley Forge was built. There are also several Glass establishments belonging to Messrs Wm. M'Cully & Co., and a Steam saw mill attached to the boat yard. It is needless to speak of the great quantities of the articles manufactured, or their quality, as all of the above named gentlemen are extensively known throughout the country. The coal for the use of these works, as well as large quantities for exportation, is let down by rail roads from the hill above to the very doors of the furnaces. One owned by Mr. Smith exports large quantities. In Temperance Village there are likewise several coal establishments, and a salt establishment owned by Mr. J M Snowden jr; a large Saw Mill belonging to Messrs. Truick, M'Call and Richardson; an extensive axe factory, belonging to Mr. John Holmes, where the best articles of edge tools are made; and a steam flouring mill belonging to Mr. M'Laren. This village has two churches, several schools, and a large number of industrious mechanics reside here. On the hills around are several delightful country residences, belonging to gentlemen who have retired from business or to those who prefer a quiet dwelling in the country, to the dust and smoke of the city.

The splendid buildings in Pittsburgh.

Among the large number of extensive public improvements, in and about the cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, we may mention three large bridges and the Pennsylvania aqueduct, across the Allegheny river, connecting the two cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, within the distance of one mile; the bridge across the Monongahela, the Western Penitentiary, the Orphan Asylum and the Theological Seminary, in Allegheny city, the Western University, and the Third Presbyterian Church, on Third street, Burke's building, the Pittsburgh, Exchange, Merchant's and Manufacturer's Banks, in the city, and last not least, our splendid Court House and two noble hotels. a description of which follows.

THE NEW COURT HOUSE.

This immense work is now completed. It is situated on Grant's Hill, on a lot formerly the property of James Ross, Esq. This edifice stands on an eminence so high above the city as to afford an extensive and beautiful view of the hills and valleys of the three rivers—the Allegheny, the Monongahela and the Ohio, with all the towns and villages for miles around. The architecture is of the Grecian Doric order, a style the most noble and imposing left us as a legacy by the ancients. The ruins of Pæstum and the Parthenon at Athens contain the finest specimens of this class—the wonder and admiration of all modern travelers.

The main front is divided into a hexa-style portico, and two pseudo peripteral wings. The building is 165 feet long, and 100 feet broad, and is connected with the jail in the rear.

The basement contains 8 rooms, 4 of which are 32 by 25 feet each, and the other 4 are 15 by 32 feet each. These are used for public offices; the prothonotary and recorder occupy the two in front, and the commissioners, clerk of sessions, &c. those in the rear. The whole of this story is made fire proof with groined arches, and makes a safe depository for the public records. These rooms are connected with each other by commodious passages, 12 feet in width.

The principal story contains a rotunda 60 feet in diameter, 4 court rooms, about 45 feet square each, and two jury rooms, each 20 by 18 feet. Each court room is connected with the rotunda by two entrances, the one for the members of the bar, and the other for the public.

The rotunda is 50 feet high to the base of the dome, which is supported by 8 Corinthian columns. The dome at the base, is 37 feet in diameter, and is finished on the top by a lantern; from the highest part of which inside, to the floor of the rotunda, is 128 feet. The ceiling of the dome is exceedingly beautiful, being executed in stucco work with enriched paneling. In the base of the dome are 8 circular headed windows, which throw a softened and subdued light into the rotunda.

The second story is connected with the rotunda by three stone stair cases; the main one is lighted from a small cupola which, with the ceilings of the stair case, exhibits richly ornamented stucco work. This story contains 5 rooms on each side. The eastern side is appropriated to the District Court of the U. S. by which it is already occupied, and furnished in the finest style. On the west side are the rooms for the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, the public library, the judges, grand and petit jury. Each set of rooms is approached by a spacious corridor, 12 feet wide, and running the whole depth of the building, which gives to these apartments a high degree of elegance and commodiousness.

The height of the principal story is 20 feet, that of the second story, 15 feet; and from the floor of the basement to that of the principal story, is 13 feet.

The floor of the portico will be 20 feet above Grant street when graded, and is gained by two flights of stone steps in front. Here stand 10 massive columns, 33 feet high and 5 feet 10 inches in diameter: These are of solid stone and fluted, and with their capitals are finely polished. From the level of Grant street when graded, to the top of the lantern is 148 feet. The Court House and Jail stand upon a lot 240 feet square, both are built of sand stone from quarries in this vicinity. The principal fronts of both are enriched and polished.

The Court House has been in the progress of erection for about five years, at a cost of near $200,000, and is pronounced ny judges to be one of the most elegant edifices of the kind in the United States. The Architect is John Chislett, Esq. of Allegheny, who furnished the plan, and superintended its erection, to whose taste and skill it does abundant honor. The contractors and builders were Coltart & Dilworth, who have done a noble work well, and deserve great credit as mechanics and artists.—Christian Witness.

EXCHANGE HOTEL,

Corner of St. Clair and Penn Streets.

Near the Allegheny Bridge.

M'KIBBEN & SMITH, Proprietors.

We have recently made a business visit to this extensive house, kept by M'Kibben & Smith, two experienced gentlemen who have long kept Hotels. They moved into the Exchange Hotel on the 1st of April, 1840, having first made a great many useful repairs and improvements, fresh papering, flooring, carpeting, and furnishing this large establishment with an entire new stock of the very best furniture, made by our Pittsburgh mechanics. We passed through it, and found the bedrooms, chambers and parlors furnished and got up in the very best style, and the beds and bedding of the first order, clean and neat and the rooms large and airy. A new dining room for ladies is about to be made on the first floor, near the large dining room, which is also to receive a new finish. There are besides the large double reading rooms down stairs, six parlors, and from seventy to eighty double and single bedrooms, an excellent ice house, a good bathing house at Concert Hall, just opposite, established for the accommodatton of guests at the Exchange, and large roomy stables, kept by J & J Mathews, near it. The Exchange Hotel, we are assured by the most respectable gentlemen who are boarding in it, and by many respectable strangers and travelers, is kept in the very best manner, and one intelligent merchant who travels a good deal in the Eastern cities, assured us it was hardly surpassed in the United States. The tables are excellent and richly provided with the best fare: the servants are attentive and accommodating, and 150 persons can be genteely accommodated in it. This large and spacious Hotel was built by the late John M'Donald, Esq., and lately purchased by Col. Wm Robinson, for 45,000, who rented it to M'Kibben and Smith on a lease for $5,000 per annum. Those gentlemen relet the stables, stage and other offices, canal packet, barber shops, &c., for about $2000, reducing their rent to $3000 a year. In order to do justice to our mechanics, we ne-tice those who furnished the principal items of furniture or done the work, viz:—Side Boards, Bureaus, Tables, &c, by J & J. W. Woodwell, Lindsey's best Patent Bedsteads, by Ligget and Hunter; Chairs by Allen Cordell; Looking Glasses by T A Hillier & Co; Upholsters, Eli Edmunson and D W Davis; Silver Ware, John B M'Fadden & Co; Papering, John Wright; Painting, Samuel M'Kinley; Glass Ware, by Curling, Robertson & Co.; Tables furnished with fine French China, by Robinson Tyndale of Philadelphia; the Knives and Forks with the name of the Exchange and M'Kibben and Smith on them, imported by Logan and Kennedy; Floor Cloths, by M'Cauly and Son.

MONONGAHELA HOUSE,

Corner of Water, Smithfield and Front sts.

Near the Monongahela Bridge.

JAMES CROSSAN, Proprietor.

We have taken some pride in noticing the improvements of Pittsburgh from time to time, and now have the pleasure of presenting to the public a particular account of the large new Hotel, which was commenced early in the year 1840, at the corners of Water, Smithfield & Front streets, and was finished in the spring of the present year. It occupies 120 feet on both Water and Front streets, and 160 feet on Smithfield street, and is 5 stories high, the roof is covered with iron, with a beautiful terrace on the top, making a delightful walk and view of the city, rivers, and the arrival and departures of steamboats and all the river business with surrounding scenery. The cellar has five apartments for washing, dressing, mangling and drying clothes; two large ice houses, one for the use of the bar and table and the other for the kitchen and cooking departments, with a variety of rooms for fuel and for the accommodation of the several offices, &c. &c. In the first story, which is level with the street, there are twelve good store rooms and offices on Water and Smithfield streets; the entrance for ladies to the Hotel from Smithfield, and for gentlemen from Water street. A bar room 42 by 28 feet, a kitchen 38 by 28 feet; a court 67 by 56 feet, with an elegant Grecian portico in front of the Hotel on Water street, and a porch all around the court on the first floor and level with the dining room, and an area under the court on three sides.

On the second story there is a receiving room directly above the bar room, 28 by 18 feet; a dining room for gentlemen, 79 feet by 29—13½ feet high, and a dining room for ladies 66 by 16 feet and the same height; 12 parlors, divided by folding doors, two lobbies and three beautiful Terraces in front on Water street. The cellar is 9, the 1st and 3d stories 11, the 4th story 10, and the 5th story 7 feet 3 inches high. On the 2d, 3d, 4th, and 5th stories (the three last being laid out in sleeping rooms) there are altogether 210 bed rooms, small or single 9 by 18, and larger double bed rooms 18 by 18 feet each.

There are 205 outside windows and about 207 inside, making altogether about 412 windows in the building. This splendid Hotel, is a vast addition to the public accommodations of Pittsburgh, and vies with any thing of the kind in the interior, or perhaps in the Union. It is the property of four wealthy and respectable gentlemen, and with the ground on which it is erected will cost about one hundred thousand dollars. Mr James Crossan, so long known as the keeper of the Exchange, occupies and keeps it. In order to do justice to the artist who planned and superintended the work—Mr. James Kerr, Architect, who very kindly showed us his plans and drawings, and to the mechanics and builders who erected it, we close with their names.

Stone Masons—Pagan, Alston and Swan. Brick Mason—Thomas Simmons. Carpenters—Vodges, J Dilworth, Scott and Gay. Plasterer—George Bassett. Painter—Samuel M'Kinley. The Terrace and Iron work—Vincent A Brown. We wish the owners and proprietors of this very splendid establishment that success which their enterprize merits.

POPULATION OF PITTSBURGH, ALLEGHENY AND THEIR ENVIRONS.

MANY of those extensive manufactories, the products of which are so extensively and so favorably known, not only throughout the United States, but also in Mexico, Guatamala, West Indies, and the northern part of South America, although at a distance they are spoken of as being situated at Pittsburgh, are not within the limits of the city proper, as might at once be supposed when its location upon a point of land between two rivers is considered, but are scattered around within a circle of five miles, the centre of which might be placed at the Court House. Within this compass are the cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, (the latter already a large place of near 12,000 inhabitants, containing many extensive manufactories, particularly of cotton, iron and white lead, and doing a large proportion of the lumber business of the district,) the boroughs of Birmingham and Lawrenceville, & the towns & villages of Manchester, Stewartstown, Sharpsburgh, E. Liberty, Wilkinsburgh, Croghansville, Minersville, Arthursville, Riceville, Oakland, Kensington, Sligo, Cuddyville, Temperance village, Millersville and New Troy. The manufacturing establishments located in these surrounding villages, have their warehouses, owners or agents within the city, and so far as general business interests are concerned, may be considered a part of the city itself, that being the centre point where the greater part of the business is transacted. The population within this region we estimated in a former work at 60,000, since the census of 1840 it is found that that estimate was too large. At page 121 of this work, it will be seen that the population of Allegheny county is, whites 81,417—colored 2,101—Total 83,518. Upon consulting with our County Commissioners, we received it as their opinion that within the district above laid down, 50,000 of this population reside. This estimate in our opinion is full small enough, when we look at the size of the largest towns in other parts of the country compared with those immediately around us. However this is a matter of no great moment, as it is allowed by all hands that there is not a more industrious and flourishing community in the West than our own. Within this district there are likewise about seventy-five churches, or places where religious worship is held upon the Sabbath—about 90 Sabbath schools, 98 clergymen of all denominations, 95 lawyers, 65 practising physicians, besides many who have retired from practice, about 475 merchants of all kinds, about 100 of whom are wholesale, and 225 hotels and tavern keepers.

Any important errors or omissions, which we may discover in the foregoing part of the work, will be corrected at the close.

RELIANCE PORTABLE BOAT COMPANY.

Line of Iron Boats,

For the Transportation of Goods between Philadelphia & Pittsburgh.

This improvement secures to Merchants important advantages, as goods placed in the Boats at one point, are never removed until they reach the warehouse at the other. Thus dispensing with the risk and delay of transshipment at three different points on the route. Careful and experienced Captains and crews are employed, who accompany the boats the whole distance.

The Boats are built in sections, which are separated on their arrival at the Portage and Columbia Rail Roads, transferred from the water upon Cars to the road, and continue their course by the agency of steam power.

Owing to the peculiar construction of the Boats, the risk of damage to goods is but trifling, as it is impossible to injure more than one section at any one time; and their light draught enables them to perform their trips in from three to four days less than by any other mode.

The company solicit a continuance of the increasing patronage they have experienced for the past two years, and their friends may depend upon their business being done upon as fair and liberal terms as by any other line.

Goods consigned to either of the following houses will be despatched without delay, and all freights and charges paid when required.

Proprietor of Bristol's Extract of Sarsaparilla for purifying the blood. The following is sufficient testimony to satisfy the most incredulous:—

“This is to certify, that I, Jane Demee, aged 32 years, residing at No. 20, Main street, in the city of Utica, was attacked about five years since, with scrofula, which terminated in scrofulous cancer. For the first four years I was attended by several physicians, and took during the time

- 14 bottles Phœnix Bitters,
- 20 boxes Life Pills,
- 100 “ Brandreth's (genuine) do.
- 3 bottles Phelp's Arcanum,
- 4 “ Smith's Anti-Mercurial Syrup,
- 5 “ Swain's Panacea,
- 3 “ Indian do.

6 dollars worth of Conway's (Boston) Medicine, a large quantity of Fowler's Solution of arsenic; different preparations of Mercury, and other medicines prescribed during that time by my physicians.

After having exhausted all the remedies my husband could hear of, that would be likely to prolong my wretched life, I was reduced to my bed, where I lay for two years perfectly helpless, and a greater portion of the third year in the same situation, an object of pity; abandoned by the doctors as incurable. At this period, my mouth, throat, palate and nose were greatly ulcerated; my palate nearly destroyed; the roof of my mouth entirely eaten away; the wings of the nose with the lower portion all gone, leaving only a small hole instead of the nostrils. My head and face considerably swollen, my flesh nearly gone from my bones with a fever. In this situation, I commenced taking Bristol's Fluid Extract of Sarsaparilla. Before I had used up the whole of one bottle I got out of my bed without help, and could walk about. I have taken eight bottles in all, & am so perfectly cured that I can go out to work and labor through the day. My general health is good, although my mouth is closed up so as to leave but a small round hole, which prevents my eating except in very small quantities. Since I commenced using the Sarsaparilla my appetite has been good, and I can eat any thing that I can get into my mouth. While I was using the Sarsaparilla, I paid no particular attention to diet, but ate all kinds of food that my appetite craved.

I am satisfied that my life has been preserved and health entirely restored by the blessing of God, and the use of Bristol's Fluid Extract of Sarsaparilla, and that alone, without the use of any other medicine, and after all others had failed to effect a cure.

JANB DEMEE.

Utica, Aug. 1, 1840.

State of New York, City of Utica, ss.

On the first of August, 1840, came before me the above named Jane Demee, to me personally known, who being duly sworn says that the foregoing statement, made by her is just and true.

IRA CHASE,

Justice of the Peace of Oneida county.

I, Lodowick Demee, residing at No. 20 Main st. in the city of Utica, have read the foregoing statement made by my wife Jane, and know the same to be correct, and do further state that no other medicine that she has taken for the last five years, has ever done her any good, except Bristol's Fluid Extract of Sarsaparilla, which has effected a miracle, and snatched my poor wife (although dreadfully disfigured,) from an early grave.

LODOWICK DEMEE.

Utica, Aug. 1, 1840.

We the undersigned, residing in the city of Utica, acquainted with Jane and Lodowick Demee, and believe their statement to be correct in every particular.

Borough & County of Washington, Pa.

Few portions of our country are more happily situated than Washington County, Pennsylvania. It has nearly a central position in the United States, and enjoys great facilities of communication and general intercourse with all parts of the Union. The county borders on the Monongahela river, on the east, and near to the Ohio on the west, and is intersected by the National Road, the great thoroughfare from the seat of the National Government to the western states. The surface is gently undulating. The soil itself is remarkably fertile, and is cultivated by a population, industrious in their habits, and of strictly moral and religious character. The salubrity of the climate is proverbial. The Borough of Washington, being the seat of the Courts of Justice, is the principal town in the county. Besides this, there is the flourishing manufacturing city of Monongahela, on the Monongahela river—Canonsburgh, the seat of Jefferson College—West Alexandria, Claysville, Hillsborough, West Middletown, Florence, Cross Creek Village, and other towns and villages of minor note. The population of the county of Washington, by the census of 1840, is 42,000. Its staple commodities are wool, wheat, corn, flour, horses, hogs, cattle, sheep, &c. In 1830 there were in the county 145,000 sheep. At present there must be considerably upwards of 200,000. As a wool-growing county, Washington, Pa., is allowed to be second in the Union only to Dutchess county, N. Y. The wool is of the best quality Merino and Saxon, and the annual produce must be over 500,000 pounds. There are about 20 steam mills in the county for the manufacture of flour, and also several woolen manufactories.

The population of the Borough of Washington, by the last census, is upwards of 2,100. The town is handsomely situated on two acclivities rising towards the north and east. The principal streets are Main, Maiden, Belle, Beaux, and Chestnut streets. These streets contain several handsome private residences, and many well kept stores. The public buildings are, the two college edifices of Washington College, the Female Seminary, the Court House, a new building, nearly completed, of imposing appearance, and having large and commodious chambers, and erected at an expense of upwards of $20,000; also Sheriff's House, Market House, Public Offices, Churches, &c. &c.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE.

The Borough of Washington is probably best known by its Literary Institutions. These are deservedly celebrated, and are gradually acquiring an extensive and commanding influence. Washington College was established in 1806. Its popularity was such, that in 1835 another new edifice was erected at a cost of upwards of $10,000. The style is handsome. The halls and recitation rooms exceedingly commodious, and the College grounds are laid out with taste.

FACULTY.

Rev. D. M'Conaughy, D. D., President, and Professor of Mental and Moral Science, Natural Theology, &c.

Rev. William P. Alrich, A. M., Professor of Mathematics, Chemistry, and Natural Philosophy.

Rev. David Ferguson, A. M. Professor of Ancient and Modern Languages.

Richard Henry Lee, Esqr., A. M., Professor of Belles Lettres, Political Economy, and Constitutional Law.

Robert Milligan Professor of English Literature.

Board of Trustees, twenty one in number. President of the Board, Rev. David Elliott, D. D., Allegheny City. Secretary, Robert R. Reed, M. D., Washington. Treasurer, John K. Wilson, Esq., Washington. These gentlemen, along with the Faculty, are always ready to give requisite information to applicants for admission.

The stated College Vacations are during the months of April and October. The winter session opens on the first Monday of November. The summer session on the first Monday of May. Tuition, $12 50 per session, always paid in advance. Good boarding can be had in the town and vicinity at $1 50 to $2 00. In the new boarding establishment in the College buildings, under the supervision of Mr. Wherry, boarding and lodging are $1 87: when the student furnishes his own lodging, 1 50. Some of the students board themselves; the expense is from 50 to 62 cents per week, and $5 per session for room rent.

The following are a few of the many advantages of Washington College: Any person not wishing to take a full course may become a student for the desired time, in any one of the classes. Students in the English Department have the privilege of attending, without expense, the Lectures, Recitations, and Experimental Demonstrations, in any of the other Departments, as far as they come within the general scope and objects of the English course. In this Department are taught all the branches necessary to the education of the man of business, comprising not only Grammar, Geography, Arithmetic, &c., but also Natural and Moral Philosophy, Political Economy, the higher branches of the exact Sciences, Chemistry, &c. It is well known that there are but few schools throughout the county in which these sciences are taught, save in Colleges. To obtain acquaintance with the branches therefore, without pursuing a regular College course, and devoting years to the dead languages, is often exceedingly difficult, and subjects the student to serious inconvenience, and much loss of valuable time. His course must be so controlled by the arrangements of the regular College classes as to place him at one time behind, and at another too far in advance of his previous acquirements. He is thus either deeply and unjustly discouraged, or strongly tempted to habits of indolence. These evils have always been studiously avoided in the English Department of Washington College. Being under a distinct Professor, and other Teachers, it gives the student all the advantages of a College, without, subjecting him to any of those drawbacks so well known to those who do not wish to undertake a full Academical course. Further, Civil Engineering, and the Hebrew, French, and German languages, although not advertised as parts of the regular College Curriculum, are yet taught when required, and without any additional expense. There are also three valuable and well selected Libraries connected with the College and containing about 4,000 volumes. The Washington, the Union and the Jackson Literary Societies belonging to the College have all separate libraries. These societies have also elegant apartments in the new College Edifice. The College Cabinet contains numerous specimens of minerals, shells, petrifications, coins, Indian, Eastern, and African antiquities, &c., &c. There is a reading room connected with the College, where the impertant periodicals of the day are to be obtained; and a Society of Inquiry on Missions, where the Religious and Missionary Journals are received. By the terms of the State appropriation which it enjoys, Washington College is bound to educate gratis young men to the number of 20 annually who wish simply to qualify themselves as teachers.

The merits of Washington College rest not on its antiquity, but on its efficiency. It is formed on the model of the best Eastern Institutions, and the great object of the Faculty and Board of Trustees has always been to impart a solid, and an accurate, not a hasty and a superficial education. The consequence is that this Institution is unsurpassed by any similar Institution west of the Alleghenies. Many of its Alumni are at this moment filling, with honor to themselves, and advantage to their country, important and conspicuous stations in the Army, the Navy, the National and State Legislatures, and also on the Bench and at the Bar; several are now Presidents and Professors in other Colleges; and among the present Alumni, amounting to upwards of 130 in constant and regular attendance are students from all parts of the Union; from New York, New Jersey, Vermont, Mississippi, Alabama, North Carolina, Louisiana, &c., and from Canada. The influence of the College, and the number of educated and literary persons resident in the place, give a tone to the habits and manners of the population. The general society is good, and the hospitality of the inhabitants proverbial. These advantages together with the local situation of the Borough, the highly moral and religious character of the population, the excellencies of the College itself, and the strict attention paid by the Faculty to the good character of the students, have all combined to make this College a favorite one with those parents and guardians who are naturally anxious for the health and the comfort, as well as the education of their youth. They can obtain here all the advantages, without being exposed to any of the temptations, of large and densely populated cities.

WASHINGTON FEMALE SEMINARY.

This institution was established in 1836. The building is large and handsome, and elegantly furnished, and cost upwards of $6,000. The Teachers are five in number, four of whom, including the lady who is Principal, and another, a native of France, are from the Troy Female Seminary, so deservedly celebrated throughout the Union, and one from the Albany Female Seminary.

TEACHERS.

- PRINCIPAL—Miss Sarah R. Foster,
 “ Herrietta M. Post,
 “ Pauline G. Defentovieux,
 “ Jane Shepherd,
 “ Eliza J. Hay.

The Board of Directors consist of nine gentlemen, lay and clerical, who appoint from themselves a "Visiting Committee," whose duty it is to visit the Seminary at least twice every four weeks. The Institution has a State appropriation of $500 per annum. Though comparatively but lately established, its general management, and the abilities of the teachers, in connexion with the known advantages of the place, have raised it to almost unprecedented prosperity. The present number of pupils is 106. Of these, fourteen are from the city of Pittsburgh; several from the various counties of Pennsylvania, and others from the states of Virginia, Louisiana, Missouri, Arkansas, Indiana, &c. The branches taught are vocal and instrumental Music, French, Latin, Drawing, Painting, Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry, National, Moral and Intellectual Philosophy, Rhetoric, Logic, Chemistry, Botany, besides Reading, Writing, Orthography, Grammar, Composition, History, &c. Boarding in the Seminary, $1,75, per week. Fees, Primary Class, $7 per session. Junior Class, $9,50. Senior, $12. Summer term commences in May, and closes on the last week of September. Winter term commences on the first Monday of November, and closes on the last week of March. The ability and the popularity of this institution are such, that the present building has now become inadequate to contain the number of applicants. The Directors have resolved to build a large addition to the present edifice, at an expense of about $4,000. The architect has been already engaged, and the work is just about to be commenced. It may be added, that this Institution is conducted on the principles of the celebrated Troy Seminary, and is well furnished with Library, Globes, and other necessary apparatus. The utmost kindness is shewn to the Pupils, combined with strict attention to moral, religious, and general deportment.

CHURCHES AND CLERGYMEN.

Presbyterian, Rev. James Smith; Methodist Episcopal, Rev. George Holmes; Secession, Rev. Dr. Beveridge, resident in Canonsburg; Cumberland Presbyterian, Rev. W. E. Post; also a Protestant Methodist church; Baptist church, German Lutheran church and African Methodist church. These four last churches have not at present regular stated clergymen.

The resident clergymen, besides those above mentioned, are Rev. Dr. M'Conaughy, Rev. David Ferguson, Rev. W. P. Ulrich, Rev. James Mills, and Rev. Thomas Hudson.

Hollidaysburg

Is situated in the west end of Huntingdon county near the eastern base of the Allegheny mountains. It stands on the elevated tract which just precedes the abrupt rise of the Allegheny ridge proper. It is amidst a most abundant iron region, and on the eastern range of great bituminous coal mines. Ere long it will have a fine turnpike communication with Bedford on the south, and will connect by a state road with Clearfield on the north. It is located on the great northern turnpike leading from Harrisburg to Pittsburgh, and at the junction of the eastern division of the Pennsylvania Canal and Portage Railroad. To this junction it owes much of its prosperity. It is of recent growth. A few years ago it was an obscure village (in 1830 contained about 72 inhabitants) but when the canal and rail road joined there, it increased in population, business and wealth, and daily improved in appearance. Now two boroughs, Hollidaysburg and Gaysport, immediately join, and have the appearance of one town. A small branch of the Juniata separates them; they are the centres of a fruitful country, which will be well cultivated, and teem with abundance, both mineral and vegetable.

Hollidaysburg, Gaysport and environs contain upwards of 3000 inhabitants.

Churches—Presbyterian, Methodist, Lutheran, Baptist and one colored church. There is a Sabbath school attached to each church.

Clergymen—Rev. Jacob Martin, Lutheran; Rev. J. P. Rockefeller, Baptist; Rev. Jacob Larkin, Methodist; Rev. Wm. N. Burton, Episcopalian, (no church yet); Rev. _____ Presbyterian.

Public Schools—Six—average of months taught since commenced, eight months; average number of scholars in attendance, 300; number of scholars in the district, 600; number of male teachers, 6; average salary of do. per month $28,08; cost of teaching each scholar per month 56 cents; amount of state appropriations, $493,00; amount received from other sources, $1200; total $1693 00.

In addition to the Common Schools, there are several private schools in successful operation in all of which the several branches of an English education are taught; also one classical school.

Above are the statistics of Beaver county, for the year 1838, since which time the Canal to Cleveland has been opened for navigation; and in another season we may fully expect a canal navigation from our own harbor to Erie.

The Pennsylvania and Ohio Canal has been in active operation since the commencement of the season, and an immense business has been done by our forwarding houses at this place, as you will find by the report of the Collector of Tolls, at Bridgewater. When the Canal to Erie is completed we may reasonably expect a great increase of business, as there will then be a direct water communication from Pittsburgh to that harbor, and thence to Buffalo and the towns and villages along the great New York Canal.

During the months of April, May, and June, 1841, 4,500 tons have been received and forwarded by our canals.

Besides these advantages it is well known that the Big Beaver river affords one of the finest water powers in the country, which, as yet, is not improved to one fourth the extent of which it is capable; we have also in the immediate vicinity of the the mouth of Beaver immense facilities for building steam boats and all other kinds of boats, and perhaps the best steam boat landing and harbor of any port on the Ohio.

All those advantages and facilities are located in a healthy, rich, and fertile country, abounding in coal, timber, iron, and fire-clay, with a direct water communication, east, west, north and south, for at least three-fourths of the year.

A situation combining so many natural advantages, only requires to be known to be duly appreciated; and though we are from circumstances not necessary to mention, as it were, under a cloud, yet ere long the horizon must clear up, and the vicinity of the mouth of Beaver shine forth resplendant in all its glory.

C.

Economy,

"A settlement of Germans called the Harmonie Society, 18 miles below Pittsburgh on the Ohio river in Beaver county." Their town of the same name, containing about one hundred brick and frame dwelling houses, is laid out at right angles on a beautiful plain, about eighty feet above low water mark. Their tract of land, between three and four thousand acres, about one-half under cultivation is partly in Allegheny county, and part in Beaver. Population, between four and five hundred, part of which attend to the cultivation of the soil, while others are engaged in manufacturing.

The property is held in common as general and indivisible stock, and the models of their religious and private regulations, are taken from the precepts of the first church, as recorded in the Acts of the Apostles. They say, without practical exercise of this religion in its strictest sense, they could not prosper as a society.

George Rapp, near eighty-four years of age, is in fine health and vigor, retaining all his faculties. He is the head of the Society, and has been, since the formation of it in 1805, which took place soon after their arrival in the U. States. Their first location was in Butler county, Pa., but being desirous of a milder climate, they sold out their possessions, and settled on the Wabash river, in the state of Indiana, where they made great improvements, and after remaining there ten years, they resolved unanimously to return to Pennsylvania, which they effected in the year 1824 and 25, and selected their present location, which is said to be the best of the three, in many respects.

Their woolen manufactory, propelled by steam, consumes annually from seventy to eighty thousand pounds of wool, which is made into broad cloth, satinet, flannel, and blankets of superior quality. Their cotton manufactory and grist mill are propelled by one steam engine, the former consumes about three hundred bales of cotton a year; a part is used for a satinet warp, a part is made into cotton goods, and the balance is sold in the yarn.

They pay great attention to raising and manufacturing Silk, using both the white Italian and Morus Multicaulis Mulberry with good success. In 1840, the product of silk was 2389 lbs. cocoons, yielding 218 lbs. of reeled silk, which they manufactured into silk goods of almost every description.

Having commenced this business on a small scale about twelve years ago, without any experience or proper machinery, and without any American model to take instructions by, they met with numerous difficulties, and under the present non-protective system, the income was so scant, that it required the aid of true patriotic and economical principles, with an eye to the general good, more than for immediate profit and gain, in Dollars and cents, to overcome the obstacles which offered.

Encouraged, however, for several years past, by a liberal bounty, paid by the state of Pennsylvania on cocoons and reeled silk, they have spared neither trouble nor expense to import and introduce the latest and most accomplished English and French machinery, as well as to obtain first rate mechanics to receive instructions from, to manufacture silk goods in the latest and most approved manner, having for some time past produced various kinds of handkerchiefs, plain and figured dress silk, plain and figured satin vestings, florentine, plain and figured silk velvet, &c. They have lately erected here, and keep now in operation, a loom of the latest and best improved English plan, producing seven pieces beautifully figured Satin Ribbon at one time.

A small steam engine has lately been attached to the cocoonery, by which reels and other machinery will be propelled, and a proper ventilation and temperature in the cocoonery effected. Having succeeded in finding a mode by which the Eggs can be preserved, so as to be hatched at any time during summer, successive crops of about 10 days distance from each other, will this year be raised during the whole season, by which the product of the present year (1841) promises to exceed greatly that of any former one. The foliage of the white Mulberry will serve during May, June and July, that of the Morus Multicaulis during August and September.

After having had one of the best and ablest silk manufacturers of London, (with family,) in their employ for several years they succeeded in obtaining the services and information of another in this art, a most distinguished family, immediately on their arrival in this country, by whom the latest and best European inventions and improvements in this interesting branch of industry, are thus happily transplanted to this country. The silk produced at Economy is pronounced by the manufacturers above alluded to, as being fully equal in quality to the best Piedmontese. Upon the whole the Economy Silk Establishment, may well serve as a model, and any instruction to young silk growers is cheerfully given without charge.

All the product of these manufactories, after the society is supplied, are deposited in a warehouse or store, where sales are made either by wholesale or retail.

They carry on all the branches of ordinary mechanism, as well for their own use and comfort, as also for the accommodation of their country neighbors, with whom a considerable business is carried on in the purchase and exchange of country produce, &c. &c.

In the lower story of a brick building 120 by 60 feet, is to be found a large and extensive museum of natural curiosities, with one of the finest collections of minerals in the United States and a large number of paintings.

The upper story of the same building consists of one room called the Social Hall, in which the whole society on certain occasions dine altogether, in celebration of their yearly Harvest home; the anniversary of their society, as well as other days of importance to them.

They have also erected a large brick church, finished in a neat but plain manner. They meet twice on Sunday and once on an evening during the week. Visitors all agree that nowhere so much good order, silence and attention can be found during service as among these people. Mr. Rapp delivers the discourse in the German language, which is generally spoken among them, although many of the members are well acquainted with the English language. The tower or steeple is furnished with two bells, and a town clock which strikes each quarter of an hour, the latter is said to be of their own make.

They have a large and commodious school house for the education of their children.

A fine and numerous band of music occasionally entertain the society with a concert.

They have a physician of their own, and an apothecary shop.

A large and well arranged Hotel for the accommodation of travellers is kept by the society, as well as a post office.

Their large flocks of sheep, horn cattle, horses, hogs, &c. all of good stock, and regularly taken care of, and stabled in winter, are the best we have seen in the western country.

In agriculture they are not surpassed by any, their fields, meadows, orchards, vineyards, nurseries of mulberry and fruit trees, are the best the country affords, and many travellers from all parts take pleasure in stopping to see this interesting place.

Some peculiarities in their internal arrangements, seem to us strange and singular, but having chosen the United States for their residence, and complying with all civil duties required by law, no one will pretend to question their free and undeniable privilege to select such a mode of living as in their opinion will best promote happiness here and hereafter.

Each department or branch of business is headed by a foreman, who is responsible to uphold the standing rules and regulations, and to do justice to, and act impartially to all members, in the distribution of all the necessaries of life.

Their habits of industry, morality and strict adherence to sound religious principles, leading to unanimity and peace, speak volumes in their favor. They clearly demonstrate to the world, how much vice and misery can be eradicated in the human family, and what degree of human happiness may be attained, by combined action of heart and hand.

We say, it cannot be a bad tree that bears good fruit.

BY A SPECTATOR.

Beaver,

The capital of Beaver county is situated about one mile west of Bridgewater, a fourth of a mile from the Ohio River on an elevated bank. The plain upon which it is situated is a beautiful one about three miles in length and one in breadth, situated as it is within one mile of the junction of the Beaver and Ohio rivers, is a place of considerable interest. It contains a public Square, (surrounding which are the following buildings, Presbyterian church, Rev. A B Quay, Pastor; Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. William Stevens and Rev. J. Monroe, Pastors; Academy, Rev. N Todd, principal, has 45 scholars, Court House, Jail, and several other public and private buildings,) it is a place of several manufactures, stores, hotels, &c. There are a number of professional characters, officers, &c. of the most distinguished talents, such as Judges, Attorneys at Law, Physicians, Teachers, Clergymen, Officers, &c. Health blooms upon the countenances of its inhabitants, which are about 900.

Is situated immediately at the junction of the Ohio and Beaver rivers, and on the west shore of the Beaver. It is beautifully laid out upon a level, and is a depot of two daily lines of canal and steam boats from Pittsburgh to Cleveland. It contains a number of fine buildings, manufactories, Hotels and Commission houses, steam boat and canal boat landings. &c; a stage office, a bridge connecting it with Rochester, and immediately beneath the bridge, a dam across, the Beaver, whose ever flowing stream is pouring its waters in one continual sheet into the Ohio, an interesting sight to the beholder. The borough contains from five to six hundred inhabitants.

Fallston

Is situated on the west bank of Big Beaver river, at the base of a precipice or hill from five to six hundred feet in height, and three miles in length, abounding in coal, alum and other minerals. Its location, situated as it is, with its numerous manufactories of various kinds, between water and coal, and immediately opposite New Brighton, we think is one of the best in the world for various manufactures. Its water power is immense, situated immediately on or at the foot of the falls, from which the town assumes its name. Both steam and water power is employed; a race is permanently constructed a mile and a half in length which conducts the water, upon which a solid row of manufacturing establishments is erected and in full operation. This borough contains from ten to twelve hundred inhabitants, who are a very industrious and useful people, prosperous and flourishing. A permanent bridge connects it with New Brighton, on which shore is a canal and slack water navigation from the Ohio river to Cleveland and Lake Erie, on which canal boats are passing daily, being an easy access for the conveyance of freights, passengers, &c. There are in this borough, 3 woolen manufactories, 2 flour mills, 1 saw mill, 1 oil mill, 1 paper mill—together with a variety of others; also, there is 1 church, 1 academy, 2 schools, 2 hotels, &c. &c.

Brighton,

Situated on the west side of the Big Beaver river, in Beaver county, four miles from the Ohio, is a very beautiful and flourishing place, commanding an everlasting water power, capable of driving any quantity of machinery.

There is now in successful operation 1 flouring mill and one cotton mill, owned by Mr. Jas. Patterson. The flouring mill is capable of turning out 200 bbls. of flour per day, of very superior quality, and is pronounced by first rate judges in Philadelphia, (to which place Mr. Patterson principally ships his flour) to be equal to the best Genessee Brand. 3 boats are kept in constant motion during the navigable season to supply it with wheat. 6 men are engaged in the mill, and the shops connected with it give constant employment to 16 coopers.—The enterprising owner has recently constructed a canal leading to his mills and machinery for unloading wheat from boats which is nearly completed. It is really pleasing to see one of Messrs. H. & P. Graff's pretty portable boats gliding along the canal with a load of flour, and to think of the short time that has passed away since the poor Indian trod upon the earth that has been excavated.

The cotton mill gives employment to 35 hands, and manufactures about 3,000 lbs. of yarn per week; a store is connected with these establishments.

There is also one steam paper mill, owned by Mr. A. Robertson, with four engines; and a staining establishment is connected with it, giving employment to ten families. The water used in this establishment is forced some 500 feet, by the application of a pump, which works by water, and is free from expense and trouble; too much praise cannot be bestowed on the enterprising owner; and he richly deserves the reputation he now enjoys.

There is also a tannery and several mechanical establishments. Also a very neat and commodious meeting house and school room. Population 300.

Rochester.

This pleasant village is situated on the east bank of the Beaver River, at its junction with the Ohio, opposite Bridgewater, with which it is connected by a handsome and substantial bridge across the Beaver River. The Pennsylvania and Ohio

Canal, leading from the Ohio River to Akron, and thence by the Ohio Canal to Cleveland, starts from here. There is a depot of canal and steamboats at this place, many of which are owned here, either in whole or part. The location is healthy and elevated, presenting a fine view of the surrounding villages, and of the Beaver and Ohio Rivers.

There are fine banks of coal, and large quantities of clay, suitable for making fire brick, many of which are made here. There are several commodious hotels and fine stores here.

The population is from three to four hundred.

It is about two miles below Brighton.

Phillipsburgh.

This beautiful Village is pleasantly situated on the south side of the Ohio River, and immediately opposite the mouth of the Beaver. It commands a splendid view of the water falling over the dam, beneath the Bridge, also a view of two, and a faint one of three Bridges across the Beaver river, near two miles distance between each; also a pleasant sight of eight towns. An artist from New York city is now drawing a landscape of the above mentioned towns and bridges. Phillipsburgh is beautifully laid out on a level plain, about three miles in length and one in width. It has a steam Woolen Manufactory, which makes cloths, cassinetts, &c. It is an incorporated village and contains two German and English schools, an Orthodox church, a Seminary is about being established there; the largest house in the place has just been purchased for that purpose. The population is about three hundred, principally Germans.

New Castle

Is located at the junction of the Shenango and Nashanock branches of the Big Beaver, 24 miles from its confluence with the Ohio, and contains 4 houses of Public Worship, 3 Sunday Schools, 1 Rolling Mill, 1 Nail Factory, 1 Flour Mill, 1 Lumber Mill, and 1 about being built, 1 Woolen Manufactory, 1 Air Foundry, 1 Cupola Foundry drove by steam power, 8 Dry Good stores, 2 Groceries, 1 Hardware Store, 2 Drug Stores, 4 Hotels, 1 Female Seminary, 3 Day Schools, 1 Writing School, and Mechanical Shops of all descriptions. The situation of the country around is well adapted for the growth of Wool and Wheat, it is very healthy and the beauty of the surrounding scenery, has met with the highest praise from all who have visited there.

The Pennsylvania Canal connecting Lake Erie with the Ohio river, passes through the town and opens another channel for the rich productions of the neighborhood.

Iron Ore is found in considerable abundance for many miles around, on the Big Run, only $1\frac{1}{4}$ mile from town; the veins are of considerable thickness. Bituminous Coal for coke or fuel, is procured with but little labor, some veins being from 4 to 6 feet thick.

Fire Clay is also found in abundance.

Considerable quantity of good Quartz is found near at hand and taken in connection with the abundance of coal, it would fully justify the investment of capital for the manufacture of Glass.

The water power is sufficient, if put into use, to make this a large manufacturing town, there is a permanent dam across the Nashanock and Shenango, 10 feet high, built by the state, connecting them by canal and guard lock. Since our last, there has been two Churches erected, which shows that the inhabitants are working for their spiritual as well as their worldly good, fully aware that without the former, the blessings of the latter would be unenjoyed.

Amount of surplus Produce shipped from New Castle, Pa., from September, 1840, up to the 15th June, 1841, as follows:

Wheat, 71,900 bushels; Flour, 9,231 barrels; Bacon, 143,000 pounds; Wool, 23,600 pounds; Whiskey, 360 barrels.

There has also been shipped, in small quantities, by the farmers, 2,000 barrels of Flour. The estimate above has been obtained from the most authentic source, and falls short, if any way, from the full amount shipped.

West Greenville

Is situated in the North Western part of Mercer county, Pa.

This village is pleasantly located on the Shenango river, and is surrounded by the finest and most beautiful bodies of land in western Pennsylvania. The Erie extension canal passes through the town, affording every facility of commerce. There are in the immediate vicinity, extensive mines of coal of a superior quality, large quantities of which are exported to New York and the Lakes. There are also inexhaustible beds of iron ore in the neighborhood.

The rapid growth of the town, and the taste and beauty exhibited in its improvements, are strong indications of the superior advantages of its location. Five years ago it contained not more than three hundred inhabitants; it now comprises a population of near one thousand. The Shenango river affords very extensive water power. There are now in successful operation two flouring mills, one saw mill, one fulling mill, 1 carding machine, one furniture factory, all owned by Messrs. McDowell, Mathers and Sill. An extensive foundry, owned by G. Bond. There is in the immediate neighborhood, a valuable oil mill. There is still a large supply of water power, well worthy the attention of the capitalist and manufacturer.

There are five churches:—Presbyterian, Rev. S. G. Willson, pastor. One Methodist Episcopal, Rev. E. Bassett, pastor. One Congregationalist, Rev. J. S. Burris, pastor. One Associate, Rev. D. H. A. McLean, pastor. One Reformed Presbyterian, Rev. J. Blackwood, pastor.

The town is also supplied with several mechanics, among which are carpenters, joiners, cabinet makers, blacksmiths, boot and shoe makers, brick makers, masons, one tanner, one copper and tin manufacturer, one waggon and carriage maker, two saddlers, one hatter, one stone and marble sculptor, all of whom find constant employment.

Elizabeth Borough, Allegheny County, Penn'a,

Is a most advantageously situated manufacturing village, lying on the East side of the Monongahela, 15 miles from Pittsburgh, being located in the midst of a wealthy, productive, and very fertile neighborhood. She has advantages of a desirable kind over many other towns in the west, one of which we consider of the greatest importance: we would respectfully mention the Monongahela Slack Water Navigation. This invaluable improvement will be completed to this point by the first of October next, and ready to pass steam boats of a large class. Persons residing at Elizabeth will be able visit to Pittsburgh by this pleasant and expeditious route, in two hours of the morning, and return on the same evening, allowing them more than half the day to attend to business in the city. It will also afford manufactories a fine field for operation. Lots, lumber, lands and materials being held very low, and the place now so easy of access, it affords the strongest inducements to men, either of large or small means, to invest. Coal in the pits per bushel can be purchased for half a cent, and delivered in the village at three cents per bushel. Lime and free stone of the best quality are cheap and convenient. Lumber from the upper country on the river descends to this point on large rafts and is afforded at fair prices. Steam boats of the largest as well as some of the smallest class are built here to as great an extent as any place on the western waters; many of those boats do credit to the builders and place, as well as to the city of Pittsburgh, where they are generally furnished and finished, and put in commission. There are three steam boats now on the stocks of Elizabeth-town. One of 100 tons, one of 300 and one of 600 tons. There is one glass manufactory, one woolen factory, one steam flour mill, one water saw mill, 4 blacksmiths, 1 tannery, 3 schools, 2 churches, 5 stores, 3 taverns, 2 waggon makers, 3 shoemakers, 2 saddlers, 4 tailors, 3 coopers, 2 stone cutters, 2 stone masons, 3 plasterers, 2 painters, 2 chair makers, 3 cabinet makers, 3 house carpenters, 1 gun smith, 1 baker, 1 wheelwright, 1 druggist.

Physicians—Wm. A. Penniman, M. H. Clarke, H. G. Swartz.

Justices of Peace—H. C. Flannegen, John McCurdy.

Attorney at Law—Samuel Frew Jr.

Clergymen—Rev. Crozier, Rev. M. McKinstry, Rev. Eaton.

One steam mill, S. Walker.

Two steam saw mills, S. Walker.

One water saw mill, Maj. John Walker.

Four blacksmiths, Peter Wilson, J. D. Mazelbaker, F. Shugart, R. Olver.

One tannery, Fergus & Wilson.

Three schools, 2 chandlers, 5 stores, S. Walker, John McDonough & Co, John Walker Jun., C. F. Diehl, J. Brink.

Three taverns, R. Cort, S. McElhenny, Isaac McLaughlin.

Two waggon maker shops, F. Nelson and John Elliott.

Two saddler shops, John R. Shields, J. Withersow.

Four tailors, J. M. McAllister & Co., William Laughlin, R. Abrams.

One green glass manufactory, J. D. Abell.

Jamestown, New York.

The village of Jamestown is situated on the outlet of Chatauque Lake, 7 miles north of the Pennsylvania line, twenty-one miles S. E. of Mayville, and 29 miles from the port of Barcelona, on Lake Erie, 30 miles S. of Dunkirk, 21 miles from Warren Pa., and 150 miles from Pittsburgh.

This village is the most populous in the county, and was incorporated in 1826, and is governed by a President and Board of Trustees, elected annually, and contains a population of about 1500. Perhaps no place in the United States is healthier or less subject to epidemics. The outlet of the Lake, within the bounds of the village, furnishes a good extent of water power for manufacturing purposes, and within about three miles has a fall of over 75 feet, and from the durability of the stream, its contiguity to the great reservoir which the Lake affords; its gradual rise and fall, no damage is ever experienced from floods, nor is the machinery ever obstructed by ice, as the river remains open in the winter. Much of the water power has, until recently been employed in manufacturing lumber which has been rafted down the stream to the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, but from the becoming scarcity of pine lumber and the rapid improvement of the village and the surrounding country in buildings, nearly all the lumber made is required for home consumption. The village and the surrounding country and indeed nearly the whole county, was mostly an entire wilderness until the termination of the war in 1815, since which, they have had a steady and gradual growth corresponding with the surrounding country, unaccompanied with that mania of speculation and consequent ruin that has visited some other places. The county now contains a population of 48,000 and is rapidly improving. This village was laid out by Judges Prendergrast and Foote, the latter is still a resident! Freight is transported between New York and Jamestown by canal and steam boat navigation, except a portage of 8 miles between the port of Barcelona on Lake Erie, (60 miles above Buffalo,) and Mayville the head of Chatauque Lake; this is the shortest portage between Lake Erie and the navigable waters of the great valley of the Mississippi. The remains of an ancient French portage road between these points, is in many places plainly to be traced, though large trees have grown up on the road, and at the harbor of Barcelona are the remains of an ancient wharf under water. There is a daily Steam Boat on Lake Chatauque, from Jamestown to Mayville, (21 miles) and back daily. This Lake is more than 200 feet above Lake Erie, and more than 1100 above tide water, and perhaps the highest body of water upon which a steam boat floats. In the village there are 4 religious societies, Presbyterian, Methodist, Congregational and Baptist, each having well finished and pleasant houses of worship and settled pastors. There is not a store or grocery that sell ardent spirits, and but two taverns and a druggist that deals in the article, and the latter only retails it for medicinal purposes. There is one bank; (Safety Fund,) incorporated in 1833, S Barrett, President, & R Newland, Cashier.

The Jamestown Academy incorporated by the Legislature is a flourishing institution, A Dickson, A B Principal, E T Foote, President, S A Brown, Treasurer, A Hazeltine, Secretary.

Villages in Chautauque County, New York.

DEXTERVILLE,

One and a fourth miles E. of Jamestown, on the N. shore of the outlet of Chautauque Lake. At this place is one of the best hydraulic powers in the western country and will no doubt, ere long, become like its neighbor, Jamestown, a place of much business and extensive in manufactures. At this place there is annually manufactured about two millions feet of pine boards, besides large quantities of lath and shingles. However the pine timber is rapidly disappearing, and the water power will soon cease to be used for manufacturing lumber. At this place is the celebrated axe and edge tool manufactory of Barns and Edgerton. John R. Cowing, Esq., is the principal proprietor of this village. Patrie Falconer, attorney.

LEVANT,

A new village and Post Office, situated at the confluence of the outlets of Chautauque and Cosadauqua lakes, four miles East of Jamestown on the eastern stage rout from Jamestown, Elliottville and Canandaigua. This village was laid out by Woodley W. Chandler and John W. Winsor, Esqs., and bids fair to become a fine town. Samuel B. Winsor, Esq. Justice of the Peace and Post Master.

Wellsburg, Va.

This is the seat of justice for Brooke County, Va., situated on an elevated and extensive bottom on the Ohio river, 16 miles above Wheeling, and 44 miles by land below Pittsburgh. It is surrounded by one of the most productive countries in the western country, having for its inhabitants, an industrious and enterprising people, who annually produce and furnish large quantities of grain, flour, horses, cattle, sheep, wool, beef, pork, butter, and a variety of other articles common to this latitude. There are many and extensive flour mills in the immediate neighborhood among which are R. Waugh's, 3 miles from town, on Buffalo creek, manufacturing about 10,000 barrels of flour annually for exportation. This town has had for many years the reputation of furnishing more flour, and that of a better quality than any town on the Ohio river—the principle market for which has been New Orleans, though, of late years, much of it has been sent via Pittsburgh to Philadelphia. Many of the citizens are engaged in purchasing and exporting this article. Its advantages for roads are not surpassed, they leading to and from it in all directions. East is the Wellsburg and Washington turnpike intersecting the great National Road at Washington, Pa.; west a graded road intersecting the national road at Cambridge, forming a route from Baltimore to Columbus ten miles shorter than any other used, and passing through a country that for beauty and fertility cannot be surpassed. The road from Wheeling to Pittsburgh passes through the town, intersecting the Steubenville and Pittsburgh turnpike, at Hollidays Cove. The town has been engaged for some years, and is still engaged, in erecting wharves, the walls of which are of stone, and of great weight. When these are finished there will be no town on the river surpassed in its convenient landings and safe harbors from ice. There is now being erected at Bethany, only 7 miles from Wellsburg and in the same county, one of the most extensive colleges in the United States. It will go into operation in November next, under the superintendance of Alexander Campbell, and is calculated for the accommodation of 500 students. The buildings erected, and those erecting, are of the most permanent kind being built of brick upon stone foundations, and are expressly adopted to the health and comfort of the occupants. The situation is one of great beauty. Wellsburg will necessarily derive much benefit from its neighborhood to this institution as it will be the point at which those visiting it will arrive and depart from.

The town embraces a large area of ground, and contains upwards of 2000 inhabitants. The buildings are generally of brick, well and substantially constructed, and latterly there have been many erected as dwellings, which display a considerable degree of taste. Its location is generally conceded to be one of the most healthy and pleasant on the Ohio river, and is surrounded with all the advantages of water, fertility and health. Its inhabitants are an intelligent and enterprising people; it is gradually increasing in population and permanent buildings, and no doubt will eventually be a place of some considerable importance, as there are in its immediate vicinity, many inexhaustible beds of stone coal, a great number of the most desirable and advantageous situations for manufacturing establishments, and much unoccupied water power which might be used with profit. The public buildings are a court house, jail and market house, an academy, the Jefferson seminary, under the charge of Peter Grant, A. M.; a female seminary, under the charge of Rev. J. L. Harrison; 1 Episcopal church; 1 Presbyterian church; 1 Methodist church; 1 Disciples meeting house, all spacious and comfortable buildings. (in the construction of the Presbyterian and Episcopal churches, there is displayed a considerable degree of taste, both for neatness and elegance,) and a Banking house. This is the most splendid building in the town; it is of large dimensions, conveniently located and finished in the most approved style.

The local concerns of the town are managed by a council elected annually.

The manufacturing business in various branches is carried on here to a very considerable extent. The cotton factory of Carle, Millard & Carle runs 1300 spindles and employs 50 hands.

The flint glass works of Miller, Lowth & Cutts; manufacture all kinds of flint glass ware of a superior quality, plain, cut and pressed. D. Markley's Flint Glass Works. Wm. Whan, Iron Foundry. W. Johnston, Engine Shop. Miller & Gist, Jeans Factory. McCluney, Nicholls & Meek, Paper Mill. Miller & Gist, Steam, Flour and Saw Mill. H. N. Bakewell, stone ware manufactory. R. Browne, red ware manufactory. Wm. Mayhall, Brewery. Fragin & Buchanan, Rope Walk. C. H. Cunningham, tanner and currier, does an extensive business, employing, besides a number of hands, a steam engine in his operations. Messrs. McCluney's powder mill, one mile from town. Jas. Marshal & Bro's, woolen factory, one mile from town, on Buffalo creek, manufactures a large quantity of cloths, cassimeres, cassinetts, flannels, linseys, jeans, &c. John Bowman, steamboat coal yard, furnishes a large amount of coal annually to steamboats, one mile below town. Thomas Carnahan, salt works, one mile below town. There are employed in these manufactories, seven steam engines. The above constitutes the principal manufacturing establishments, but there are a large number of industrious and very respectable mechanics engaged in nearly all the useful arts and an abundance of lawyers and doctors.

There are three large and extensive mercantile establishments doing a heavy business. Seven groceries and several houses of entertainment.

 Not a house in the county licensed to retail ardent spirits.

There are several other large flocks in the county of which we have no estimate, and numerous small flocks, the number of which would be at least 10,000, making a total of about 20,000. The amount of wool shipped from Wellsburg from one warehouse, in 1839, was 200,000, which at the average prices of that year, 45 cts per lb. makes a sum of $90,000. There are two other houses which were engaged in shipping, at the same time, and which shipped considerable, but we cannot ascertain the exact amount.

There are several of our farmers who are entering with a spirit of enterprise into the improvement of their stock, and there is now in the county, some of the best imported breeds of cattle and hogs; among those engaged in this are S Jacob, J Brown, John Lewis, W Metcalf, A Kuhn, A Campbell, and J C Campbell. There is an Agricultural Society formed by the citizens of Ohio and Brooke county, which holds its meetings alternately at Wheeling and Wellsburgh.

Warren, Ohio.

This flourishing town, the county seat of Trumbull county, is situated on the Mahoning river, a branch of the Big Beaver, near the centre of the county, and is easy of access both from the east and west by means of the Pennsylvania and Ohio canal which passes through it. The principal part of the town is laid out around a large public square, in the centre of which is the Court House, and around or near it are the county offices. There are many delightful private residences here, the grounds around which are very elegantly and tastefully laid out, and planted with trees and ornamental shrubbery, like those family mansions which are more frequently met with in the eastern and longer settled portions of our country than in the west. As might be expected from this evidence of refinement, the society is very good and intelligent, and this with the accommodations of several first rate hotels, make Warren a very pleasant place to pass a few months, particularly in the summer. The inhabitants are very industrious, wealthy, and good-livers, presenting a fair sample of the best New England manners.

Middlebury.

A flourishing post village in the South West corner of Tallmadge township, Summit county, Ohio, situated on an arm of the Penn. and Ohio canal, 1½ miles from Akron. Middlebury is one of the oldest commercial and manufacturing towns on the Western Reserve. The little Cuyahoga river runs through the village, with a fall of 60 feet, on which is an extensive flouring mill, two woolen manufactories, an extensive shop for the building of all kinds of woolen machinery, one sash factory, one comb and button factory, together with much other local business. There is also a Rail Road which runs through the village, on which is carried on an extensive coal trade. Population 1000.

Youngstown.

This flourishing town is situated in the centre of a rich and fertile county, and probably no one town on the Reserve deals as largely in agricultural products. Some of the farmers are very wealthy. It has a population of between fifteen hundred and two thousand.

The water power of the vicinity is very good, being situated on the Mahoning, and is the producer of much wealth to the inhabitants. The Pennsylvania and Ohio Cross-Cut canal passes through it, affording facilities for communication with all the principal towns in Ohio and Pennsylvania. It will probably be one of the most important places in the Western Reserve, both as respects agriculture and manufacturing interests.

East Liverpool,

Is situated on the Ohio river, exactly midway between Pittsburgh and Wheeling. The location is admirable, it is near the juncture of three of our most formidable states, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Virginia, and only 4 miles from the state line of the last named state. The scenery which is brought to the view in your approach to the town is not to be exceeded in grandeur, upon the western waters. It is a very flourishing place. There is a steam boat yard, steam grist and saw mill in successful operation, and there are many other Mills and Manufactories, progressing and in contemplation, among which is the manufactory, (now in successful operation,) of Porcelain, which is carried on by Mr. Bennett, a regular manufacturer from Staffordshire, England. Immense quantities of very superior clay is found in the immediate neighborhood of Liverpool, equal to that used in the manufactories of Europe; also, iron ore and stone coal is in abundance; a Forge for the purpose of manufacturing pig metal has been recently put in operation in the vicinity. The "Liverpool Ware" is for sale in Pittsburgh by Mr. George Breed.

Newton Falls,

Township of Newton, County of Trumbull, Upper and Lower Village,—are pleasantly situated between the two branches of the Mahoning, on the Ohio and Pennsylvania Canal. It lies about mid-way between Lake Erie and the Ohio river, and is surrounded by a healthy and flourishing country. It is distant from Fairport, the best natural harbor on Lake Erie, forty-five miles south; from Wellsville, on the Ohio, forty-five miles north. A charter for a rail road has been granted, uniting these two places, and passing through Newton Falls. It is distant from Pittsburgh, where the canal terminates, about 70 miles; from Warren, capital of Trumbull, 9 miles west; from Ravenna, capital of Portage, 14 miles east; from Cleveland, 49 miles south-east.

It contains 2 grist mills, 2 woolen factories, 3 saw mills, 1 new and large paper mill, 3 warehouses, 2 churches, 4 taverns, a post office, and a number of good stores, shops, and schools. It possesses great advantages for water power, and iron ore is abundant in the neighborhood. Population between four and five hundred. It is increasing more rapidly than any place in the Western Reserve.

H. A. Du Bois, principal proprietor.

For purchase of lots, apply to A. Stevens, Newton Falls; J. & W. Earle, do.; or to Dr. Dubois, 757 Broadway, N. Y. A lithographed map may be seen at this office. Price of quarter acre lots, from $100 to $300.

Akron, Ohio,

Is located upon the Ohio Canal, at the junction of the Pennsylvania & Ohio Canal and the Ohio Canal, 38 miles south of Cleveland, and 116 miles west of Pittsburgh. The commercial prosperity and facilities of Akron, are equal, if not superior, to any other interior town in the State, having a location at the western termination of the P. & O. Canal, and at its junction with the Ohio Canal. Akron holds the key to its commerce, and through it is connected the western commerce of Philadelphia and New York, by way of the Pennsylvania rail roads and canals. Its peculiar location upon the Ohio canal, with a reference to the 21 locks, where it is situated, together with its manufacturing power, makes Akron the depot of an extensive cultivated and fertile region of country west and south of it, which country depends exclusively upon it for her market and manufactures. The improved and unimproved hydraulic power concentrated at Akron, is confessedly superior in extent and permanency to any other water power in the State by the improvements already completed. It controls the entire water of the southern branch of the Cuyahoga river, over a fall of about one hundred and eighty feet, and by means of the P. & O. canal, and the improvements of the Portage Canal and Manufacturing Co., now in process of completion, will ultimately secure about the same amount of fall of the water of the western branch of the Cuyahoga. These immense resources of water power are rendered accessible and convenient to the business precincts of Akron. A portion of this water power is now employed in Akron, in running the machinery of four flouring mills, having in the aggregate seventeen run of stones, and manufacturing in the season about sixty thousand barrels of flour. 3 cupala and 1 black furnace, 4 woollen factories, 2 machine shops, 1 pail factory, 1 chair factory, and a variety of other machinery.

The present population of Akron is upwards of two thousand, a population acquired principally within six years, and now rapidly increasing. Akron, as a town, is located on a high and healthy position, and furnished abundantly with pure spring water. The enterprise, industry, and prosperity, is indicated by the extent and rapidity of its growth and its business success. Akron has 12 dry goods, drug, and book stores, 6 taverns, and manufacturing, mechanical, and trading business in proportion.

The moral intelligence and religious character of the inhabitants has procured within the last five years the erection of five edifices of religious worship: 1 Presbyterian, 1 Baptist, 1 Episcopal, 1 Methodist Episcopal, 1 Universalist.

CINCINNATI, OHIO.

Our work has been very liberally patronized in Cincinnati, and we present a list of our subscribers in that city, and their business cards. The principal hotels of Cincinnati will be found in the list of leading hotels of the principal cities in the United States.

This beautiful city of the west has had ample justice done her, by an excellent and very valuable work, "Cincinnati in 1841, its early annals and future prospects, by Charles Cist," which we have received from our early friend, the author, and read over with pleasure and profit, and derived much instruction from its pages. In order to give our readers and the public a brief birds-eye view of Cincinnati, we now present several interesting extracts from it; and we refer for more general information to the work itself. Pittsburgh is almost our birth and certainly our adopted place, for we have lived in it upwards of forty years; and we love to tell of her industry, progress, and prosperity, yet we feel and speak as an American who loves his country's prosperity; and it is with pleasure that we pore over the prosperity of the cities of our greatwestern valley, and we take a pride in presenting such flourishing cities as Cincinnati and Cleveland to our readers.

TOPOGRAPHY.

Cincinnati, the largest city of the west, is situated in a gradual bend of the Ohio river, on its northern bank, and immediately opposite Newport and Covington, Kentucky. Its latitude was determined by colonel Jared Mansfield in his topographical surveys, 39 deg. 6 min. 30 sec. north, and its longitude 7 deg. 24 min. 45 sec. west. It is nearly central between Pittsburgh at the head of the Ohio, and Cairo at the junction of that river with the Mississippi, being about 465 miles from each point. Its distance by land traveling is—from Columbus 115; Indianapolis 120; Lexington 90; Nashville 270; and Pittsburgh 298, miles. By steamboat conveyance—from Louisville 138. St. Louis 655, Natchez 1335, and New Orleans 1631. By stage route it is 502 miles from Washington, 518 from Baltimore, 617 from Philadelphia, and, via Lake Erie and the Erie canal, 650 miles from New York.

The upper plane of Cincinnati is 540 feet above tide water at Albany, and 25 feet below the level of Lake Erie: low water mark of the Ohio river here being 432 feet above tide water at Albany, or 133 feet below Lake Erie. The descent of the upper part of Cincinnati to low water mark is therefore 108 feet. The city is almost in the eastern extremity of a valley of about twelve miles in circumference, perhaps the most delightful and extensive on the borders of the Ohio. The platform of the city is composed of two parts, the second table rising considerably above the level of the first, affording, under a regular system of city grading, that desirable medium of slope which permits the drainage to pass off freely, while it affords from the city landing an easy ascent.

The hills which surround this extensive valley, present to the eye of the beholder one continued ridge, irregularly elevated, and of diversified configurations. They exhibit, under no circumstances, an aspect of grandeur; but are always beautiful and picturesque. Their average elevation above the plain, is about three hundred feet; and, instead of the bold and rocky declivities, which characterize the freestone regions of the Ohio, they present gentle and varying slopes, which are mostly covered with native forest trees. The aspect of the valley from the surrounding hills is highly beautiful. It is various in its character, as it is seen at different seasons, and from different points. In approaching Cincinnati by water, whether ascending or descending the river, the view is neither extensive nor commanding."

BOUNDARIES AND DIVISIONS.

"Cincinnati is bounded—north by Fulton and Mill creek townships; the Ohio river forms its southern and eastern boundaries; and Mill creek lies on its west. It is divided into seven wards, whose boundary lines are as follows:

1st Ward, includes that part of the city which is between Main street and the corporation line, on the north and west, and the third ward on the south and east. The line between the first and third wards is—from Main street, east on Fourth to Pike street, thence to Symmes or High street, to the reservoir of the city water works, thence north 16 degrees east to the line of Fulton township.

2d Ward comprehends all between Main street and Western row, and Sixth street on the north and the fourth ward on the south. The boundary line between the second and fourth ward is—from Main along Fourth to Walnut street, thence on Walnut to Baker street, thence along Burnet street, Wright's alley, McFarland and Ruffner streets to Western row.

3d Ward, from Main street to the Fulton township line, and from the division line with the first ward, to the river Ohio.

4th Ward, from Main street to Western row, and its division line with the second ward, to the Ohio.

5th Ward, extends from Main to Plum street, and from Sixth street to the corporation line.

6th Ward embraces that part of the city from Sixth street to the river, and from Western row to Mill creek.

7th Ward includes the space from Sixth street north, and Plum street west, to the corporation lines."

CLIMATE.

"The climate of Cincinnati and vicinity, is such as might be expected in its appropriate latitude. It differs from the same parallel at the Atlantic, only in being rather more variable in the range of the thermometer, and the greater frequency of rain in the winter months. Indeed, a fall of many degrees in the thermometer, in the course of but a few hours, is not uncommon in this city, at any period of the year. The cold weather in winter is of intensity equal to that at the east, and perhaps the north, but severe frosts are less frequent in their occurrence, and of briefer existence. Snow rarely lies long enough to furnish sleighing, and the constant alternation of the freezing and thawing renders the traveling through unpaved streets, in the winter season, very unpleasant."

REMARKS.

From Pittsburgh to Cincinnati, both shores of the Ohio amount to more than nine hundred miles. From Cincinnati to New Orleans, there is a river coast of the Ohio and Mississippi of more than three thousand miles. The Upper Mississippi, from the mouth of the Ohio to the Falls of St. Anthony, has one thousand six hundred miles of fertile shore. The shores of that part of the Missouri which has been navigated by steam, amount to four thousand miles. One of the numerous tributaries of the Missouri, the Yellow Stone, is represented to be as large, and to afford an extensive navigation as the Ohio. The Arkansas and Red rivers, together, have not less extent of steamboatable waters than the Missouri. The shores of the Illinois, Wabash, Tennessee, Cumberland, St. Francis, White, Wachitta, and Des Moines rivers, as far only as those streams can be navigable by large steamboats, amount to about four thousand miles. Although the above enumeration leaves out a great many streams on which large steam vessels will, at some future day, ply for thousands of miles, it is believed that enough has been brought into this estimate for my purpose. Here, then, are fertile shores falling little short of twenty thousand miles, which can easily be visited by large steam vessels the greater part of the year. According to Mr Flint, the boatable waters of the Ohio and its tributaries alone, amount to five thousand miles; and those of the Mississippi, including all its tributaries and bayous, are estimated by the same author at forty thousand miles. Taking all these streams together, they probably afford facilities for trade nearly equal in value to the same number of miles of common canals.

What reasonable man, then, having informed himself on the subject, can doubt that, in the midst of these wonderful facilities for trade, with such a soil, and peopled and peopling by the most active and enterprising, and, in some respects, intelligent population on the globe, prodigious cities must here grow up, and with a rapidity having no example on the Atlantic coast. You will look, in vain, on that border for towns exhibiting such rapid advances in wealth and population as Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, and Louisville have experienced since 1825. And who can doubt that they will continue to advance in a rapidly increasing ratio, unless Providence, by some unforeseen event, should stop the tide of immigration, and dry up the prolific sources of increase at home, which, in their wonderful fecundity, seems to insure us, at no distant day, a multitudinous population, independent of foreign supply.

But our interior cities do not depend for their development altogether on the domestic trade; they can partake, with their Atlantic sisters, of the foreign, also; and if, as some suppose, the profits of commerce increase with the distance at which it is carried on, and the difficulties which nature has thrown in its way, the western marts will have the same advantage over their eastern rivals in foreign commerce, which some claim for the latter over the former in our domestic trade. Cincinnati may use the outports of New Orleans and New York, as Paris and Vienna use those of Havre and Trieste; and it may come to pass, that steamships from Europe will enter our great lakes, and be seen booming up the Mississippi.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

OF THE

CITY OF CLEVELAND.

Cleveland is the emporium of Northern Ohio, and is the next in importance to Cincinnati. It is situated in Cuyahoga county, upon the Southern shore of Lake Erie, upon the east side of the Cuyahoga river, at its mouth, where, also, is the northern termination of the great Ohio canal. It is distant 130 miles N W from Pittsburgh; 140 N E from Columbus; 200 by water from Buffalo, and 130 from Detroit. N. lat. 41 deg. 31 min. W. long. 81 deg. 46 min. or 4 deg. 44 min. West from Washington.

The city derives its name from Moses Cleveland, the agent of the Connecticut Land Company, who accompanied the first surveying party upon the Connecticut Western Reserve, and caused a plat and survey to be made of Cleveland in 1796, two years after the extinguishment of the Indian title, and before there was a single white settler in that part of the N W Territory. The Indian title upon the west side of the river was not extinguished till the 4th of July, 1805.

Cleveland was incorporated as a village, Dec. 23, 1814, and its powers vested in a President and Trustees. In March, 1836, it was incorporated as a city, with ample powers vested in a Mayor and Council, elected annually—the Council consisting of three members from each Ward, and as many Aldermen as Wards, chosen from the city at large. There are, at present, three Wards, and all citizens are voters who are qualified to vote for members of the state Legislature, and have been one year resident in the city. Cleveland was regularly organized under its city charter on the 11th April, 1836. The Hon. John W Willey, lately deceased, was the first Mayor, and was also re-elected the second year—great credit is awarded, and justly due him, for putting into successful operation, the machinery of the city government.

Northern Ohio was almost an unknown region, till the survey in 1796. A few families, soon after, found their way to the mouth of the Cuyahoga, but did not permanently settle there, and in 1799 one family only remained at Cleveland—it was the family of Lorenzo Carter.

Forty years ago, the Lake Country was considered as forever cut off and secluded from the business world, by distance from market, and impediments which it had not been dreamed could be overcome. Since then, the extraordinary improvements of the age, by canals, rail roads, and steam boats, in connexion with the great chain of lakes, have given to that solitary region, a teeming population, and the choice of markets throughout the world. Cleveland, which was unheard of, till the war of 1812 brought it slightly into notice, received and cleared by canal, alone, in 1840, the immense quantities of produce and other property exhibited in the following table, by D H Beardsley, Canal Collector at Cleveland.

Canal Collector's Office, Cleveland, }
JULY 23, 1841. }

The total number of pounds of all property on which toll is charged by weight, that arrived at Cleveland, by way of the canal, during the year 1840, was 280,233,820. The following are the principal articles of property that arrived at Cleveland, by way of the canal, during the past year, viz:

2,151,450, bushels Wheat,		513,452, do lard,
72,842, do corn,		683,499, do bacon,
22,881, do oats,		1,154,641, do pig iron,
167,045, do mineral coal,		2,252,491, do iron & nails,
504,900, barrels flour,		634,954, pieces, staves and
23,000, do pork,		heading,
9,967, do whiskey,		2,909, cords wood,
782,033, pounds butter,		932, hhds tobacco,

The total number of pounds of all property on which toll is charged by weight, that were cleared from Cleveland, by way of the canal, during the year 1840, was 42,772,233. The following are the principal articles of property that were cleared from Cleveland, by way of the canal, during the past year, viz:

9,563,396, lbs. merchandise,		76,729, barrels salt,
1,163,167, do furniture,		8,959, do lake fish,
1,770,016, do gypsum,		2,560, M shingles,
1,265,656, feet lumber,		21, pairs millstones.

The total number of clearances issued from this office during the year above named, was 4137. The number of different boats cleared was 312.

D. H. BEARDSLEY, Collector.

The following table, furnished by the Collector of Customs at the port of Cleveland, Geo. B. Merwin, Esq. shows the entrances and clearances, for the same year, of sail craft, and steam boats, and the quantities of the principal articles cleared.

No. of vessels entered at the port of Cleveland during the year 1840, exclusive of steam boats. 1344

No of vessels cleared,	1344
No of steam boats cleared,	1020

Principal articles cleared from the port of Cleveland, 1840.

2,100,000, bushels wheat,	786,000, pounds butter,
500,000, barrels flour,	68,000, bushels corn.
38,000, do pork,

The following, furnished, also, by Mr. Merwin; shows the amount of tonnage owned at Cleveland, July, 1841.

Whole No. of Schooners belonging to the port of Cleveland, July, 1841,			67
Total number of Brigs,			2
Total number of Sloops,			3
	Tons.	95ths.
Tonnage,	7,019	18
No of steam boats belonging to the port of Cleveland,			11
Tonnage,	4,390	19
Total tonnage,	11,409	37	83

Much of the flour, wheat and pork, shipped from Cleveland and other Lake ports, goes through the Welland canal, (a ship canal,) and Lake Ontario, to Montreal, and is shipped thence to Great Britain, under a system of duties more favorable than to direct shipment from U. S. ports, and framed to secure to British bottoms the carrying trade.

The harbor at Cleveland has been greatly improved by the General Government, and is one of the best and easiest of access of the lake harbors. It is still in charge of the officers of Government, to be furnished in the most substantial and enduring manner by stone masonry. The piers are extended into the lake about 425 yards and are 200 feet apart. In the event of a war with England each party would deem the possession of this harbor of the greatest importance, and more particularly on account of the juncture with it, of the great Ohio canal—should the British obtain the mastery of the Lake it would fall an easy prey into their hands, unless strongly fortified and defended.

Ohio, as shown by the statistics of the late census, is the greatest grain growing state of the Union, and Cleveland is the mart to which the largest proportion of its surplus accumulates for distribution to the New York, Canada, and other markets.

The Cross Cut, or Pennsylvania and Ohio canal, 85 miles in length, connects the Ohio canal at Akron, with the Beaver canal at New Castle, and was opened in 1840, and is becoming of great benefit to Cleveland and Pittsburgh, by the convenient and cheap communication it furnishes the two cities—it opens to Pittsburgh the whole chain of Lakes for the reception of her manufactories.

MILITARY COMPANIES.

A battalion of Artillery consisting of two companies was organised in 1837, under the command of Lt. Col. T. Ingraham, and a company of Infantry, now under the command of Capt. N. Hayward, was organised the same year. They are all in a flourishing condition, and for drill and discipline, are not excelled by any military companies at the west.

The battalion of Artillery are commonly known as the Cleveland Greys, and the company of Infantry as the Cleveland Guards.

U S Military—There is stationed at Cleveland, company G, 4th Regiment, U S Artillery. Capt. John Monroe.

Baltimore Commercial Journal AND LYFORD'S PRICE CURRENT.

The first number of this paper was published March 3d, 1838; and has been issued regularly every Saturday morning since. The price is Five Dollars per annum, payable in advance. It has a substantial circulation, which is increasing; its subject matter being of a character which renders it valuable, not only for immediate, but for future reference. The prices quoted are not those only of the Baltimore market, but the European, South American, West Indian, and those of the cities of the United States. Commercial Statistics are duly noticed; and all commercial subjects, deemed worthy of interest, are carefully collected and collated. The undersigned is proprietor and sole editor—and in person performs every office appertaining to the publication, except the printing.

STEBENVILLE FEMALE SEMINARY.

Under the superintendance

OF THE

Rev. Charles C. Beatty, D. D.

This institution is delightfully situated on the bank of the Ohio, adjoining the town of Steubenville. It has large and commodious buildings, both for the literary and boarding departments. It has been in operation for twelve years, with uninterrupted prosperity; its numbers having been always full. It is designed to be a permanent establishment for the education of Females alone, and is the most extensive one of the kind in the western country. Here all the solid branches of Female education are thoroughly taught, and also those usually called Ornamental.

Pupils are received at all ages, and those from a distance board in the Seminary with the Teachers and Principal. Parents may rest assured that every attention will be paid to the health, manners, and mental and moral improvement of scholars.

The regular sessions begin on the first Mondays of May and November in each year, and continue each twenty-two weeks. Applications for admission to be addressed to the superintendent, who will at any time give full information as to terms, &c. Printed outlines and catalogues are circulated annually.

Madison, In.

IS situated on the northern shore of the Ohio river, in the state of Indiana, about one hundred miles from Cincinnati and fifty from Louisville. It is a very healthy and pleasant place, surrounded by a large extent of well settled country. There is a rail road in progress which leads from the town to Indianapolis, the state capital, which road is nearly finished. This town has increased rapidly within a very few years in population and business. There are a very few places in the whole western valley, which can compare with it, in the quantity of Pork shipments; large quantities of flour are also shipped from there for New Orleans, and other markets. It contains a population of nearly one thousand persons, and has many fine buildings, among which are three Hotels, three Churches, flour Mill, steam cotton Factory, warehouses, dwellings, &c.

New Brighton, Beaver Co. Penn.

The town of New Brighton is admirably situated, both as respects conveniences of building and water privileges on the eastern bank of the Beaver river, about three miles above its mouth. The village is well laid out in broad streets crossing at right angles to each other, and many of the private residences are neatly built and tastefully adorned with shrubbery and shade trees. At either end of the town a bridge crosses the Beaver river, one connecting it with the town of Brighton and the other with the borough of Fallston. These bridges are owned by stock companies, and add much to the appearance of the place. The water privileges of New Brighton, are hardly surpassed in the west. Situated as it is, on the Falls of the Beaver, with the Pennsylvania and Ohio Canal passing thro' it, the quantity of machinery which might be put in operation here, is almost unlimited. The surrounding agricultural country, supplies all necessary produce, and the water communication, both east and west, is of the most constant and convenient character. It will at once be seen that with these facilities it would be a profitable place for the investment of capital. There are at present in the place several factories and manufactories of various kinds, as well as many industrious and enterprising merchants, mechanics and farmers. There are 1 Presbyterian, 1 Methodist, 1 Seceder, 1 Unionist, and 2 Friends places of public worship. The office of the Beaver county Insurance company is here. This company has a capital of $400,000, all paid in and well secured. R. Townsend, President, Edward Hoops, Secretary. There is a branch office in Pittsburgh, of which M B Lowrie, Esq. is actuary. The New Brighton Female Seminary, under the care of Mrs. E. Critchlow, is an excellent school of the higher class. The New Brighton Institute, a society for literary and scientific purposes has been several years in existence, and composed as it is of the best heads in the county, has done much to promote the march of intelligence among its members and their associates. It has a library and a cabinet of curiosities, and its proceedings are conducted on the Lyceum principle. The following is a PRINCIPAL HOTELS IN THE Larger Cities and Towns IN THE UNITED STATES.

Anxious to make our work as generally useful as possible, to the business and traveling community, we have prepared a list of the principal Hotels in the Cities and Towns in the United States, so far as we could conveniently collect and arrange them. We may have omitted some for want of correct information and returns to our solicitations; such must excuse us. Those in the cities and towns embraced in the Directory are noticed under the head of the towns in which they are situated. We believe this is the first general list published in any Directory of the kind, for we could not find such a list in any of them which we have seen.

Boston—Tremont House, Marlboro' Hotel, Lafayette Hotel, American House, United States Hotel, Shawmut House, Hanover House, Blackstone House, Elm Street House, (Wilde's,) Albion Hotel, Pavilion, Merchants' Hotel, Boylston Hotel, Sun Tavern.

New York—Astor House, by Coleman & Stetson, 321 Broadway, near the Park. It is unnecessary to describe this unrivalled hotel.

American Hotel, by William B Cozzens, 229 Broadway, opposite the Park. An excellent house—much patronized by officers of the army and navy.

City Hotel, by A Gardner, (late Gardner and Packer,) 123 Broadway, near Wall street. This is the oldest of our hotels; and among the very best.

Howard's Hotel, by D D & A Howard, 176 Broadway, corner of Maiden Lane. An excellent and highly popular house.

Franklin House, by Hayes & Treadwell, 197 Broadway. An excellent hotel—very popular.

Globe Hotel, by Francis Blancard, 66 Broadway. A very good, well kept hotel; patronized rather more by foreign noblemen and people of high fashion, than business men.

Waverly Hotel, by Alonzo C Reed, 58 Broadway. An excellent house.

Mansion House, by William J Bunker, 39 Broadway, near the Battery. A quiet, pleasant and agreeable hotel.

Atlantic Hotel, by M'Neil Seymour, 5 Broadway, very near the Battery. An excellent house; very agreeable for such as wish to escape the noise of the city. The same remark applies to the Mansion House.

St. George's Hotel, (formerly the Sans Souci,) by S T Blanchard, 61 Broadway. A very good, pleasant and fashionable house.

Carlton House by Preston H Hodges, 350 Broadway. An excellent, fashionable and comfortable establishment; but a little too far up town to be readily found by strangers.

The Pearl Street House, by John M Flint, 88 Pearl Street. This is a spacious and excellent establishment. It is situated in the heart of the wholesale district of the city, and is consequently chiefly supported by the patronage of country merchants. It is in all respects a first rate house.

United States Hotel, (formerly Holt's) by Edwin R Yale, 262 Pearl street, corner of Fulton. A very large and magnificent building; kept in excellent style, and much patronized by eastern people.

Pacific Hotel, by L A Pratt, 166 Greenwich street, now kept as a Temperance House. An excellent establishment, and very conveniently situated in respect to the North River steam boats.

Clinton Hotel, by P Hodges, 3 Beekman street, near the Park. A good, quiet, comfortable establishment.

Lovejoy's Hotel, by Wm Lovejoy, corner of Beekman street and Park Row. This house is kept upon the European plan, Visitors who wish to attend to their business without being restricted to any definite time for their meals, will find this a very desirable house, as they can have their meals at all hours and in first rate style.

Agricultural Statistics of the U. States.

From a voluminous table of the agricultural productions of the United States, for the year 1839, we extract the following aggregates. Kentucky, North Carolina, Michigan in part, and Florida and Wisconsin Territories, are not included in these returns. Large as is the exhibit, we presume that great quantities of produce escaped the observation of the assistant marshalls.
